HITLER RUINS ENGLISH CITY FOR REVENGE

Coventry 'Ocean of Flames' From 30,000 Fire Bombs

1000 DEAD, WOUNDED

AIR BOMBS WRECK CITY OF COVENTRY

COVENTRY, England, Nov. 15—Adolf Hitler's diving, screaming, bombing formations struck one of the most punishing blows of the siege of England last night when they raided this Midland industrial city and caused about 1000 casualties. The raid, Berlin dispatches said, was in direct retaliation for the recent bombing of Munich while Hitler was speaking there.

Scores of public and private buildings including hospitals, shelters, the 14th Century cathedral, with its 303-foot spire; police station and postoffice were demolished or damaged. Many fires still burned fiercel ytoday and firemen were working against overwhelming odds as the raiders returned for new attacks. Uncounted townspeople still were buried in great piles of rubble, so thick and tangled that the work of rescue was held up. Rescue squads, their ranks depleted by the death of many brave members during the night, stood by to aid as soon as conditions would permit.

More than 500 planes took part in the "revenge raid," dropping 30,000 incendiary bombs and a million pounds of high explosives. This city was like a scene out of Hades between dusk and dawn while the German raiders dumped their bombs in ceaseless relays.

A full moon shone, but its brilliance was dimmed by a pall of smoke and the glare of fire from burning buildings.

It was the worst continuous attack experienced by any city—including London—since the siege of Britain began.

CATHEDRAL TOWER STANDS

Squadron after squadron of German planes came over every three minutes in divoe-bombing formation.

Certain whole thoroughfares were left without a single house undamaged. Craters were dug in virtually every roadway of the city.

The central tower alone remained in the beautiful medieval cathedral. Even that was torn and poked.

Some streets consisting of half-timbered houses dating back to the middle ages were wiped out.

More than anything, Coventry looked as though it had been hit by a major earthquake. Scores of persons wandered aimlessly today through the littered streets, trying to salvage some things of value from the rubble of their homes.

All night long, the narrow streets where Lady Godiva rode on her horse nearly 1000 years ago trembled and crumbled with the thunder of diving planes, the scream of

Nazis Say Coventry 'Ocean of Flames'

BERLIN, Nov. 15 (AP)—Britain's airplane industry suffered a destructive blow, informed Germans declared today, when Marshal Goering's Luftwaffe, using 500 planes to drop 30,000 incendiary bombs on Coventry last night, left that manufacturing city in "an ocean of flames."

While the strongest units of British bombers ever aimed at Berlin slashed at the German capital, the high command reported, Nazi raiders struck back at Britain during the day and night, causing "tremendous devastation" at Coventry, sinking three ships and badly damaging two others, including a destroyer.

Amplifying the high command's report of the Coventry bombing, informed sources reported that all of the city's large and small airplane motor and accessory factories resembled "an ocean of flames" after a few hours.

More than 500 planes participated, it was said unloading, in addition to the fire bombs, more than a ton of explosives each.

In retaliation for British bombing of Munich last week while Adolf Hitler was there, the high command delcared, the German air force "dealt our opponent an extremely severe blow in a monster raid on important armament targets in central England" last night.

"Especially fierce," the communique said, was a rolling bomb barrage on Coventry, where Germans said the Morris, Bristol, Rover and Napier motor works and a General Electric plant are situated.

Meanwhile, the British attempted to raid Berlin during the night with "strong forces," the high command said. Other authorized sources said the units were the strongest that ever "flew into Germany in order to bombard the Reich's capital."

The Germans claimed to have destroyed 20 RAF attackers. They acknowledged losing five of their own planes.

Several buildings were struck in Berlin, it was said, but "only immaterial personal damage" was caused.

PLANE PLANT SHUT BY CIO WALKOUT

DOWNEY, Cal., Nov. 15 (AP)—The Vultee airplane factory was closed today by a strike. A CIO picket line was established early this morning, thereby actively beginning the first strike at a factory manufacturing military craft since the start of the present national defense emergency.

A breakdown of wage negotiations caused the walkout.

A spokesman for the firm said it was hoped that the plant could remain open with a skeleton crew, but at 7:30 a. m. it was forced to announce to several hudnred workers that operations could not begin.

Fifteen hundred night workers, leaving the plant at 5 a m., began the picket line. Two hours later, the line was swelled by the arrival of nearly 2000 day workers.

A union official said a picket line of 1500 would be kept around the plant all day.

Vultee officials remained at the plant throughout the night, and a

GREEKS ATTACK FOE ON 120-MILE FRONT

ATHENS, Nov. 15 (INS)—Greek troops pressed forward in a general offensive along a 120-mile front today amid claims that Premier Mussolini's Fascist invaders have been pushed almost entirely out of Greek territory and back into Italian-held Albania.

Italian troops still remain only in one-sixth of the fighting zone south of the Greco-Albanian border, it was claimed.

There, in the Kalamas river section of the Epirus, the Fascists were said to be threatened with the danger of complete encirclement with their backs to the Ionian sea.

In all other sectors, it was reported, the fighting has been transferred to Albanian territory by the hammering blows of a heavy Greek drive launched at dawn yesterday.

An Associated Press dispatch from Athens said two entire Italian divisions, numbering about 30,000, had been destroyed by Greek forces.

On the heels of this apparently disastrous defeat Berlin sources reported that German Field Marshal General Wilhelm Keitel and his staff met Italian Marshal Pietro Badoglio in Innsbruck for consultations.—Editor's note.

The Italians struck back with aerial bombing attacks and the Greek high command announced that hospitals and houses in inland towns had been destroyed and some civilians killed and injured. The communique stated, however, that no military objectives had been hit.

The public security ministry amplified this announcement by stating that the Italians had bombed the islands of Crete and Corfu and the cities of Larissa, Janina and Cephalonia. It added that in Larissa the Italians scored a direct hit on a military hospital and on several public air raid shelters.

The Italian base at Koritza was described as almost completely surrounded by the fierce Greek warriors, with only a narrow path of escape to the northwest still open strafed the retreating Italians, reports received in Athens said.

The advancing Greek troops were aided effectively by swarms of Greek and British planes, which fenders.

ACCUSES WIFE OF PETTING PARTY

In pouring rain he stood outside his own home, peering through a window, and watched another man make ardent love to his wife, Kenneth Kearney Goodell of Lynn testified today in Salem probate court.

Goodell, 31-year-old automobile service manager, living in Williams ave., seeks a divorce from Mrs. Thelma Goodell, 28, also of Lynn, and custody of their 10-year-old daughter, Lois May.

The wife is contesting the suit, in which the six-foot husband charges her with cruel and abusive treatment.

Goodell told Judge John V. Phelan that on another day when he arrived home unexpectedly he discovered his wife across the hall, seated on his uncle's lap and also being embraced ardently.

SOBS ON STAND

Goodell said he was 21 and his wife 18 when they were married in Lynn on Sept. 27, 1929, and that during their married life there were frequent storms.

Once he broke down on the witness stand and began to sob while relating an incident when she told him she was in love with another man.

On June 10, 1937, he said, he and his wife made plans to go out at night together, but at the last minute she changed her mind and said she was going to visit her mother instead.

"But she didn't come home until 1:30 or 2 o'clock in the morning," said Goodell. "When I asked her where she had been she said it was none of my damn business. That started a row and she was kicking and fighting and scratching my face.

TELLS OF FIGHTS

"The day before Christmas, she again went out and came home at 2 a. m. I got no sensible answer to any questions I made.

"It was a pretty dull Christmas, because usuall yshe had a Christmas tree for the kiddo. But that morning she wouldn't come downstairs to make breakfast for me and the girl. I had to make it.

"We had another row which almost ended in a fist-fight. She kicked me and almost knocked me out. I carried scratches on my face 90 per cent of the time."

Goodell said they had other arguments because she had neglected to keep up bank deposits in her Christmas fund for two months, and she threw a shoe at him when he questioned her about the lapse.

SAW PETTING PARTY

"On Nov. 12, 1938, I had to go to a meeting," the husband testified further. "When I went to the meeting that night I found it was called off. Naturally I drove home. There was a blinding rain.

"I saw a car parked in front of my house. I looked through the living room window and there I saw my wife with a man. I stood in the rain and watched and then they went into the kitchen.

"I went to the back of the house and looked through a window. I saw them carrying on a petting party. I evidently made some noise, because they heard me and my wife jumped up. I broke into the house.

"The man ran from the kitchen into the living room. I didn't follow him. I knew there would be a fight. But I told my wife to tell the man to get out and stay out."

Sen. Byrd's Daughter Files Divorce Suit

RENO, Nev., Nov. 15 (INS)—Mrs. Westwood Beverly Byrd Kern, daughter of Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D.) of Virginia, charged cruelty in filing suit for divorce against Harry R. Kern, Jr. She asked return of her maiden name. They were married June 6, 1936, at Perryville, Va.

HALL BALM SUIT VERDICT DELAYED

Instead of returning the expected sealed verdict today, the jury in the Hall alienation suit came into Superior Court with a report that the members had been unable to agree as yet in the case.

To Judge Jesse M. Morton, the jury foreman said the jurors had "substantially agreed" on one point in the case—improper conduct—and it was felt that they could agree in the matter of alienation if afforded more time.

"Well, that looks promising," commented Judge Morton.

The jury foreman then asked if a question might be put to the court, and when given permission he asked:

"Does an alienation have to be on the part of both parties?"

RESUME DELIBERATIONS

"The act of the defendant," Judge Morton replied, "must be the prime motivating force to leave her husband."

Then the jurors retired again to resume deliberations, which had earlier been carried on from 3 to 10 p. m. yesterday, before they retired to bed.

MRS. HALL

None of the three principals was in court when the jury made its announcement of incompleted deliberataion—Walter S. Hall, 53-year-old Boston bank clerk; his ex-wife, Mrs. Margaret Kelley Hall, and the defendant, Dr. Adam E. Cole of Swampscott, from whom Hall seeks $25,000 damages.

The last witness, Mrs. Hall, pointing to blonde Mrs. Viola Golden, a spectator, identified her as the woman she had seen enter the apartment of her husband, and whom she later saw with him on three occasions at a Back Bay cafe.

Mrs. Hall said she first saw a blonde woman go into her husband's apartment in the spring of 1938, when she was occupying an apartment across the street for the purpose of watching him and his visitors.

DISCUSSED HIS VISITOR

Q—Did you talk with your husband about a number of occasions you saw him go into the apartment with a woman? A—Yes.

Q—That woman—did you recognize her? A—No, I wasn't sure. He told me of a blonde and I went to —— Huntington ave. and saw Mrs. Emery.

Mrs. Golden before her present marriage was married to a man

Vt. Mailman Tells Kidnap Story to Jury

While police, postal inspectors and G-men hunted 19-year-old Paul V. Gould today, a Vermont mailman told a federal grand jury how he and his young son had been kidnaped and forced to drive 211 miles.

Frank O. Flint of South Royalton, Vt., and his boy, John, 3, were the victims.

While the father related the story to the grand jurors, the boy stayed in the office of Chief Postal Inspector John J. Breslin.

Paul Gould

There, with toys provided by Breslin, he played, to an audience of Inspector Robert A. Reid of Vermont, Alfred C. Finger and J. Marks of Boston.

The hunt for the alleged kidnaper, Gould, concentrated in Roxbury and East Weymouth.

WROTE TO BRIDE

"To My Bunny Dearest:

"No matter what happens I'll go down loving you. I can't stand being where we were married. I see you here all the time. I am in a daze. It seems as though you are always beside me in this picture.

"Goodbye, My Darling.

"Your Loving Husband, Paul, always."

Gould, authorities said, enclosed a snapshot with the note to illustrate the point of his last line.

FBI agents entered the case when Flint told of being forced at gunpoint to drive across state lines from South Royalton, Vt., through Concord and Nashua, N. H., to Boston. Under the Lindbergh law, a federal statute, kidnaping across state lines is punishable by life imprisonment.

PAROLED MONTH AGO

Flint positively identified Gould, police said, from photographs in the bureau of records at Boston police headquarters. The youth was paroled from Concord Reformatory only a month ago, after serving a term for unarmed robbery.

The postman was also quoted as accusing Gould of seizing $56 from him before jumping from Flint's auto at Eustis and Washington sts., Roxbury. Flint immediately reported his experience at the Dudley st. station and learned that at the very time police of three states were searching for him.

BLONDE QUESTIONED

Soon after Flint related his story a squad of Roxbury officers and federal agents raided a house in Ottawa st., Roxbury, a short distance from the home of Gould's

BOGUS TOBIN IN-LAW FACES CHARGE

Accused of mulcting a hotel of $92 and fleecing taxicab drivers by posing as Mayor Tobin's brother-in-law, a man was being held by police today after his arrest in the mayor's outer office.

The real Edward F. Noonan, the mayor's brother-in-law, of Kinross rd., Brighton, told officers he had been unaware that an impostor was at work until he heard stories of how he had been living in style at a hotel and borrowing money.

Connie Divorces 3d; New Romance Looms

RENO, Nev., Nov. 15—Blonde and beautiful Constance Bennett was preparing to leave this "biggest little town in the world" today after shedding her third husband during a six weeks' stay that had even the police chief sending her flowers.

The lustrous film star, who once divorced Playboy Phil Plant of New York and received a cool $1,000,000 settlement, charged her latest mate with desertion.

Marquis de la Falaise

He was the Marquis Henri de Baille de la Falaise de la Coudray. In Hollywood he was known as just "Hank."

Connie once threatened to sue any newspaper that intimated she contemplated divorce from the Marquis, now believed to be in France.

Reports had it that the blonde actress held off the suit while Hank was fighting the Germans as an interpreter, but with the cessation of hostilities ending that career there as no longer reason to delay.

GOSSIP PICKS NEW LOVE

Gossips point to Gilbert Roland, the curly haired actor, as Connie's big heart interest—for the present at least.

Miss Bennett gained the title of one of Hollywood's greatest courtroom figures during an endless series of divorces, libel suits, contractual mix ups and other varieties of litigation.

Only recently she was sued for $3500 when she refused to pay artist Willy Pogany for a portrait in which she said her sleek lines were put down on canvas as too fat—particularly around the thighs. She won the suit.

Eldest of three daughters of Actor Richard Bennett—another is Joan Bennett, the actress -Connie has held the spotlight for years on and off the screen.

Miss Bennett's first plunge into matrimonial waters was in 1921 when she eloped with Chester Moorehead. That was annulled two years later when she explained she married him on a dare.

In 1924 she married Plant and divorced him five years later. They have a son, Peter, now 10.

GLORIA SWANSON'S EX

About this time Hank, the Marquis, was being divorced by Gloria Swanson, the almond-eyed brunette charmer of the films, and the Bennett-Marquis marriage was culminated in 1931. Hank was Gloria's third mate, this making twice his wives have taken him as their third venture and failed.

Miss Bennett's arrival and stay in Reno was momentous. The town turned out to greet her, and Police Chief Andy Welliver sent roses. It was Chief Welliver who appeared as her resident witness in the brief, 10-minute hearing which once again made Connie a free woman.

SOMERVILLE MAN SUSPECTED IN ATTACK ON YOUNG BRIDE

Cambridge police, after hearing the story of a Wakan woman, Mrs. Barbara Sheehan of Oliver rd., obtained the photograph of a Somerville man who may have been the assailant of Mrs. Jeanne Gautier Earle, it was learned today.

Mrs. Earle, Simmons graduate and only 21, was kidnaped at gunpoint, tied up and attacked on the Stoneham shore of Spot Pond.

A few hours before Mrs. Sheehan reported that a young man had tried to jump into her car at Fairfield st. and Commonwealth ave., Back Bay, but that when she screamed he fled.

Mrs. Earle, three-month bride of a Harvard law school student, was back at home, in Everett st., Cambridge, after treatment at Peter Bent Brigham hospital.

A piece of rope with which the gunman tied his struggling victim and attacked her in a lonely section of Spot pond was also being studied.

Police also attached significance to the fact that at this same spot a man leaped from the car of Miss Grace Sullivan, 33, of Otis st., Cambridge, after kidnaping and binding her wrists with rope and taking $10 from her handbag.

HUB FOOD STAMPS SCORE HIT

Officials behind Boston's newly launched food stamp plan were preparing for a big rush by welfare recipients today and tomorrow.

Only 376 families bought $2426 worth of food stamps the opening day, but officials predicted the number of families sharing in the plan will grow day by day.

In Brighton, Hyde Park and parts of Roxbury and the South End, persons receiving dependent aid were scheduled to receive their weekly checks today, while several thousand families getting mothers' aid will receive their bimonthly checks tomorrow.

3500 PARTICIPATE

Thus, some 3500 retailers participating in the plan were expected to do a brisk business before the week-end.

From welfare recipients who already purchased the stamps came warm praise for the plan. Some said the program made it possible for them to prepare a more varied meal than at any time since they went on relief.

Others seemed pleased to learn they received blue stamps with purchases of orange stamps, which enabled them to get free of charge a wide assortment of commodities, including butter, eggs, potatoes, fresh oranges, apples and various other edibles now listed as surplus commodities.

GIFT FROM MAYOR

A Roxbury mother bought the first food stamps from Mayor Tobin at the Whittier st., welfare office and received a surprise gift from the mayor.

After she remarked that she was going to eat steak for the first time "in a long, long time," the mayor gave her two dollar bills, and said kindly:

"I wish you would please let me pay for the steak this time."

The woman, surprised, stammered her thanks.

Hitchhike Gun Girl In Court

WESTBROOK, Me., Nov. 15—Accused of flashing a gun on a motorist and forcing him to drive her to Lewiston, a girl who gave her name as Miss Georgette Prouix, 17, of Westbrook, faced arraignment in court today on charges of carrying a concealed weapon.

The motorist, Kenneth C. Carver of Buxton, told police the girl thumbed a ride from him. As he drove toward Portland, he said, she whipped out a .32-caliber revolver and ordered him to drive her to Lewiston "or else."

When she finally left the car, Carver summoned Patrolman Fred Swendsen who picked up the girl along the highway and took her to headquarters here. Investigation disclosed the gun was not loaded.

Steel Chief Warns Council on U. S. Entry in Business

Use of "staggering" defense appropriations of recent months to set the U. S. government up in business in general post-war competition with private industry would be "State Socialism on a broad front and the proable death of the system of free private enterprise," Irving S. Olds, board chairman of the U. S. Steel Corporation, warned the 16th New England Conference today.

The speaker emphasized, however, his belief that Congress does not contemplate putting the government in business and that "sole purpose of the expenditure of these vast sums by the federal government is to make this country reasonably safe against attack."

"Government funds in large amounts must be employed in the building of the many new facilities needed for the production of the countless weapons of defense covered by the preparedness effort," Olds said.

STRESSES COALITION

"Industry cannot fairly be expected to create at its own expense such a vast array of new facilities of a special nature, most of which would be of doubtful value in private hands at the conclusion of the emergency."

To attain the "goal of thorough preparedness for any eventuality at the earliest possible date," Olds urged "sincere coalition of all interests, devoid of partisan politics, class hatred, any imagined hostility of capital toward labor and vice versa and of any unfounded imputation of reactionary influence.

"This formula is not involved," the speaker continued, "but its fulfillment calls for far-sighted and broadminded statesmanship not only vy those in government but also by leaders of business and labor and by those who formulate public opinion."

Today's session concluded the two-day program of the New England Conference, jointly sponsored by the New England Council and the six New England governors.

FARM AID URGED

Marcus L. Urann, president of Cranberry Growers, Inc., of South Hanson, suggested the establishment of co-operative processing plants in New England to utilize farm surpluses and help stabilize New England agriculture.

"The farmer needs two outlets for his crops, one in the raw state and one in the manufactured state," Urann said. "This will increase the farmer's income and raise the standard of living for both producer and consumer."

Crocker Snow, chairman of the New England Conference of State Aviation Officials, urged local contributions to federal airport construction plans and costs.

"Any good civil airport will be useful to the military air force in time of emergency," he said, "but few airports built only with their military function in view will be useful to civil aviation."

W. L. Crum, professor of economics at Harvard, urged a "persistent and intelligent push" to curtail state and local expenditures and thus reduce the increasing tax burden.

SEEKS TAX CUTS

"We shall probably face for years to come a steady encroachment of the federal taxing authority upon former taxable preserves of the state," Crum declared.

"Unless we are to see state and local governments moving even more rapidly down the road to bankruptcy, we must make an ever increasing drive toward reduction of their expenses wherever feasible."

"GLORIOUS DAY"

From Thomas D. Galbraith, member of the British purchasing commission, came the statement that the day the United States takes up arms against the totalitrian states will be a "a glorious and happy day in British history."

Delegates also were told by Igor Sikorsky, world famous aviation authority, that prospect for an aerial bombardment of this nation is no cause for panic because, he explained:

"There is no substantial number of aircraft available anywhere in the world that could attack the United States from across the ocean."

Galbraith asserted that Great Britain is not looking for the United States to "pull her chestnuts out of the fire."

"But should the United States ever decide that the totalitarian nations threaten her trade, her standard of living, the liberty of her people, her independence, the American way of life and that it is necessary to take up arms in their defense, that would be a happy and glorious day in the annals of British history," he said.

Prof. J. Anton De Haas, of Harvard University, told the conference:

"The place to defeat Hitler is in Europe now, not in Latin-America after he has conquered Europe. A German-controlled Europe would enter the world market as one trading unit, with which the U. S. would be unable to compete and Hitler would hold an economic club over the South American countries so that the U. S. could not hope to escape the inevitable consequences of economic decline and government regulation."

Survey Says New Hub Firms Gave 2500 Jobs

Jobs for more than 2500 persons have been provided by 78 new manufacturing firms which began operations in the Boston metropolitan area during 1940, it was announced by M. D. Liming, executive secretary of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, today.

National defense projects are responsible for many of the new jobs, especially at the Fore River Works and the General Electric Co. According to the chamber's survey, the number of jobs has increased by one-third over the employment figures for 1939.

Jealous Parrot Must Die for Biting Baby

WINSTED, Ct., Nov. 15 (AP)—Bill, an 18-year-old parrot, was under a death sentence today, convicted by Mrs. Frank D. Griswold of attacking her four-months-old son, Onville, in a jealous rage.

The child was bitten on the face and mouth yesterday as he was lying in his crib, and was taken to a hospital. Attendants said the wounds were not serious.

WIFE STRANGLER WALKS LAST MILE

McALESTER, Okla., Nov. 15 (AP)—Roger Cunningham, 34-year-old wife strangler, whose attorney fought unsuccessfully in two courts to snatch him from death at the 11th hour, was executed in the State Prison electric chair a few minutes after midnight today.

Cunningham entered the death chamber at 12:05 a. m.

Roger Cunningham

The prisoner was pronounced dead at 12:13.

The young housing inspector who left the body of his socially prominent wife, Eudora, in an Oklahoma City sewer ditch March 6, 1939, uttered no sound as he went to the chair.

Upstairs, in the warden's office, Atty. Herbert K. Hyde waited by an open telephone wire, hoping to the last for a reprieve.

Court denial of a sanity hearing had left his only recourse the governor—and Gov. Leon C. Phillips had stated that he would not interfere.

Cunningham, his hair iron gray, sat in his death cell a few hours, his head shaven, nervously snapping matches, but saying little.

He was only 12 steps from the worn, scuffed death chair.

In March, 1939, the comely Eudora Cunningham was missing. For 19 days the case was a mystery, then Cunningham confessed that he had strangled her and burried her in a partly filled sewer ditch.

Officers found the body with the aid of a crude map drawn by the prisoner.

STATE RECOUNT SEEN SURE

A recount of votes cast in the Massachusetts gubernatorial race seemed assured today as both Dever and Saltonstall factions filed new petition with Secretary of State Cook.

In the recent closely contested election Governor Saltonstall obtained re-election by an unofficial plurality of 9057.

It is expected that the secretary of state will set the date for the recount on Dec. 2.

Groups rpresenting Atty.-Gen. Paul A. Dever, Saltonstall's rival in the race for Governor, today filed five papers containing more than 300 signatures with the Boston Election Commission.

With previously filed papers, they now have nearly 400 signatures of Suffolk county voters, or more than enough for a recount in this county.

The Saltonstall group have filed 716 signatures, of which 300 names have been certified by the election commission as registered voters of Boston.

The Saltonstall group contend that in Boston many Saltonstall votes were credited to Dever.

Under Massachusetts law, a recount may be obtained in any county by presenting a petition containing the names of 250 registered voters.

For a State-wide recount, 1000 signatures from four different counties are required.

Deadline for filing the petitions is 5 p. m. Wednesday.

Political observers expect that little change will be shown in the recount and that Governor Saltonstall's re-election will stand.

Schools Close In Rain Deluge

Schools closed in several Greater Boston cities and towns today as rain continued to pour, accompanied by cold winds.

More rain and continued unsettled conditions appeared in store for New England throughout the day as well, according to forecasters, as a low pressure mass of moisture covered a wide area.

Hope was still given, however, that the skies may clear at least a little for tomorrow's football games.

Weather bureau officials reported that in the midwest, where heavy rain and snow fell early in the week, generally fair and cold conditions now exist. Among the towns where school sessions were cancelled today were Revere, Brockton, Groton, Saugus and Nahant.

Bay State Autoists Pay $7,164,093 Fees

Massachusetts car owners, 1,110,570 strong, paid $7,164,093 in fees for licenses, examinations and registmonths of this year.

In the same period last year, 52,723 less pleasure cars and commercial vehicles were on the roads, and they paid in $6,900,752 for the same services.

VICHY WEIGHS BREAK

VICHY, France, Nov. 15 (AP)—Vice Premier Pierre Laval was reported to be en route to Paris today to attempt to stave off a definite break with Germany.

French-German relations have reached a crucial stage as a result of the expulsion of more than 10,000 French-speaking residents of Nazi-occupied Alsace-Lorraine, dispatches from Paris said. German authorities last added to the friction by cutting off permits to travelers from the occupied to the unoccupied zone.

The break-of-relations theory has risen following the meeting between Laval and Adolf Hitler last month, it was said, but the policy thus received its first public check.

Well-informed quarters said Laval had assured his Cabinet colleagues that he would find a solution before returning to Vichy today.

There was nothing to indicate that the policy of collaboration for the peace of new Europe," developed in talks between Laval and Adolf Hitler last month, was dead, but the policy thus received its first public check.

In Berlin the German government today semi-officially announced that the evacuation is under way. The Lorrainers are being escorted to the demarcation between occupied and unoccupied France and are being cared for by the German Red Cross and other relief organizations until they can be resettled in other parts of France, officials said.—Editor's Note.

136 Refugees In Hub After Battles at Sea

Widowed recently when her millionaire husband was killed by a Nazi bomb while serving as a volunteer air raid warden in London, Mrs. Therese Lederer, formerly of Budapest, Austria, reached Boston today with 136 other war refugees aboard the British passenger-freighter Baltrover.

During the voyage here from Liverpool, the vessel was attacked by a German bombing plane and a German submarine and fought off another sub in a surface battle.

Accompanied by her two daughters, Inge, 10, and Renee, 15, Mrs. Lederer was met at Mystic docks, Charlestown, by her brother-in-law, Louis Lederer, head of the New York branch of the Lederer chain of 25 women's clothing stores, founded by her late husband, Herman Lederer.

Wet and gloomy weather failed to dampen the spirits of the Baltrover's refugee passengers today. They lined the vessel's rail and sang

"There'll Always Be an England" and "Roll Out the Barrel."

Crash Upsets Car, 4 Hurt

Bad weather spelled bad luck today for Anthony F. Navoy, 29, of Poplar st., Charlestown.

Navoy, recently unemployed, was to report to an outdoor job today but rain cancelled it. This morning because of the downpour, he offered to drive his wife, Ann, and four of her friends to work in Boston.

At High and Pleasant sts, Charlestown, a sedan driven by Albert Shea, 29, of Franklin st., Charlestown, rammed Navoy's sedan, tipping it over and injuring the four women guests so seriously they were taken to the City Hospital.

Taken to City Hospital were Helen Majeski, 20, of Congress ave., Chelsea; Nellie Doncaster, 21, of Winthrop st., Chelsea; Helen Hanko, 20, of Winthrop st., Chelsea, and Pearl Lubbarski, 23, of Beacon st., Chelsea.

All were held for treatment. Mr. and Mrs. Navoy were uninjured, but Navoy's sedan was wrecked.

Governor Proclaims Nov. 28 Thanksgiving

Massachusetts will once again observe Thanksgiving Day on the last Thursday in November—this year, the 28th—Gov. Saltonstall ruled today in the face of President Roosevelt's second proposal that the event be held a week earlier.

In his annual proclamation the Governor pointed out that "in these days it is not only for what we have received but also for what our country has been spared that we are thankful. When we look across the sea and read the daily toll of men, women and children killed or maimed by bombs of explosives we know from what we have so far been saved."

EVENING AMERICAN, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1940

ERRAND BOY ARMY JOBS IRK BAY STATE DRAFTEES

Massachusetts draft front today was marked by some uncertainty over actual induction dates and complaints from draftees over the thought of becoming mere errand boys in the army.

From Washington came a last-minute announcement under which induction for Massachusetts men would start Tuesday.

Maj. Gen. James A. Woodruff, First Corps Area commander, and draft board officials, however, indicated they would go through with plans to induct the first group Monday, Nov. 18, as originally slated.

Although any change of orders would mean an entire new schedule for each New England state, Massachusetts officials emphasized, however, they were prepared to carry out any last minute changes of plans ordered.

MANY COMPLAIN

The most general complaint came from potential trainees who had hoped to be hardened up with calisthenics and then taken to the field by trained soldiers to receive instructions in the firing of machine guns and other army weapons and maneuvers.

Referring to disclosures by Army officials that the draftees would be kept busy at training camps on the same jobs they occupied in civilian life or in the Army's service corps, one young draftee told his local draft board:

"I didn't have to enroll for a year of military training to be told I am to be a chauffeur for a year. It is with some sacrifice my parents see me go away for a year, but they thought it was for my general welfare and future safety."

MONTH AT DEVENS

Maj.-Gen. Woodruff revealed that the New England recruits would not spend more than a month in actual military training at Fort Devens. It was explained that later these draftees will serve as clerks, shippers, radio and movie operators, chauffeurs, supply men and many of them as messengers.

From another 26-year-old volunteer draftee came this complaint:

"I got a year's leave of absence from the insurance company for which I worked so I could get a year's military training. I can't believe I'm going to spend a year as a messenger.

"It was my understanding I would come out possessing a year's military training, which I supposed would be with guns and military equipment."

RESENTS CLERKING

Another said:

"The argument most repeated in Congress was that military training would prevent our manhood from being led to slaughter. I don't think it was meant for a fellow like me who is a clerk, to spend my year clerking in the army.

During their preliminary training at Fort Devens, according to the Army's announcement, the trainees will receive only one month of basic military training. This will consist of sanitation, close order drill, a study of the Articles of War, first aid, some rifle instruction and interior guard duty.

5 Bay State Air Cadets Graduate

Four Massachusetts men were among 221 flying cadets graduated today from the U. S. Army Air Corps advanced flying school at Kelly Field, San Antonio, Tex., to begin active duty as second lieutenants in the regular Air Corps.

The Massachusetts fliers are Henry O. Asselin of Seattle st., Allston; Gerald Robert Vacca of Keenan st., Watertown; Frank Melvin Wyman, Jr., High st., Stoneham, and Benjamin Anthony Kaskas, Huntress ave., Methuen.

Out of the class, seventh of like size to complete the pilots' training course since the first of 1940 at Kelly, it was assigned to the air corps by 2nd Lieut. Cadet Flying instructors for the exceptionally increasing classes of combat pilots for the Army.

The graduating class will be assigned to the many fighting units of the Army Air Corps now located throughout the United States, Panama, Hawaii and the Philippines.

Draft Board Defies Eviction

Trustees of the General Lander building in Andrews st., Lynn, appointed by the city of Lynn, today faced threat of government action if they persist in efforts to force removal of a draft board from the premises.

The trustees, pointing out that the building is used as headquarters of Post 5, G. A. R., issued a notice to the draft board to vacate on the grounds they were given only temporary quarters.

Dr. James A. Dumas, chairman of board No. 88, warned that "those obstructing the purposes of the draft would find themselves in serious trouble with the government."

264 Naval Reserve Ensigns in Service

NEW YORK, Nov. 15 (AP)—Assistant Secretary of the Navy Lewis Compton presided at the commissioning of 264 ensigns in the Naval Reserve—graduates of the Naval Reserve midshipmen's school.

Of the 264 men commissioned, 250 already have their orders to report for active duty "from here to China and home," as one officer expressed it.

HALL LOVE SUIT GOES TO JURY

named Emery.

Attorney Thomas C. O'Brien then turned to the spectators bench and asked Mrs. Golden to stand. She did so and O'Brien asked:

"Do you recognize her as the woman who went into the apartment?"

"Yes," Mrs. Hall answered.

Q—Did you have a conversation with her. A—Yes. She said she had dinner at a grille; that she had too much to drink and didn't feel well. She said she went up to see Mr. Hall and stayed a little while and then went home in a taxi.

Q—How many times did you see Mr. Hall with a woman in the grille? A—Three times.

GOLDEN ON STAND

Louis Golden, husband of the blonde Mrs. Golden, was then called to the stand. He testified he lived in West Sixth st., South Boston, and was married to Mrs. Emery in March, 1938. The same year, he declared, he talked with Hall concerning Mrs. Golden and she was at his side as he telephoned.

"I was living away from my wife at the time," Golden testified. "I called up Mr. Hall after I got the number from Mrs. Golden. All she could tell me was he was a dance hall sheik connected with —— dance studio.

"I called him and he wasn't there. Then I called him at the Embassy Apartments. I said: 'Why are you stepping out with my wife?' He said: 'Who are you?' I said: 'I'm Mr. Golden. What did my wife do in your apartment.'

"He said first she wasn't in his apartment but after a little hemming and hawing he said she was, and was slightly intoxicated, and he sent her home in a taxi.

"I said: 'Do you think it's right to have someone else's property in your apartment? I ought to punch you in the nose the next time I see you. I hung up."

Mrs. Golden, taking the stand for brief testimony, said she was not married to Golden in March of 1938, but on Sept. 11 of that year. She said Mrs. Hall had asked her but denied saying she had been in Hall's apartment.

Hall, himself, in earlier testimony, had denied Mrs. Golden had ever been in his apartment.

TELLS OF BLONDE FRIEND

Hall testified he knew Mrs. Golden by her maiden name of Viola Helrick when she worked on the switchboard at the Atlantic National Bank and that later she became Mrs. Emery and then Mrs. Golden.

Referring to his notebook regarding the night of May 7, 1938, Hall said:

"I met my wife after she told me she lived across the street from the Embassy Apartments, where she was watching my apartment. That was the time Viola Helrick, or Mrs. Emery, came into the lobby.

"Mrs. Hall accused this blonde of going into a corner with me. My wife said the blonde was Eleanor Wallace. I found that Eleanor Wallace had been away for two years. I came back and told her. She must have meant Viola Helrick.

"I said to my wife: 'She worked on the switchboard with you at the Atlantic National Bank.' My wife said: 'I don't know her.'"

Q—Following these statements by your wife that you were with Viola Helrick, you wrote a letter to your wife? A—Yes.

Q—Did you call Mrs. Emery on the telephone and tell her your wife was coming down to speak to her? A—No, my wife told me that Mrs. Emery told her she was not in my apartment.

Andy's Pal Amos Sued by His Wife

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 15—The two children of Freeman Gosden, the Amos of radio's Amos and Andy team, will remain with their mother under an out-of-court settlement announced today by Mrs. Leta Gosden, who has filed suit for divorce.

Under terms of the settlement, Freeman, Jr., 12 and Virginia Marie, 10, may stay with their father during certain summer months with Gosden having the right of visitation at other times.

'Amos' Gosden

The Gosdens have been married 13 years. She charged mental cruelty.

Mrs. Gosden issued a statement that she and her husband had tried faithfully to make their married life happy and successful "but have finally reached the conclusion that this is no longer possible."

She said her husband's radio work required so much of his time that it was impossible for them to live a normal home life.

Brewers Work As Firemen Battle Blaze

It may have been a nasty, smoky fire on the fourth floor of the Boston Brewing Co. plant in West Second st., South Boston today—but outside it was raining.

So employes in the building stayed at their work while firemen fought the blaze.

Heavy traffic on West Second st., already slowed by the rain, was tied up by the engines in the street. The blaze started in pitching machinery, and damage was slight.

Governors Urge Defense Roads

New England governors today were behind a program designed to produce more federal funds for construction of strategic defense highways.

During a conference at the State House, the governors also criticized the federal government's failure to use New England lumber which is available at low cost because of the amount of it felled by the 1938 hurricane.

Attending the conference at Gov. Saltonstall's office were Governors Barrows of Maine, Baldwin of Connecticut, Governor-elect Wills of Vermont and Blood of New Hampshire.

"A Loan Ended My Money Worries"

"Little bills kept worrying me because I never seemed to be able to take care of all of them when they should have been paid. Then I solved my problem by securing a loan from one of the licensed companies who advertise money to loan in the Boston American and Sunday Advertiser.

"I paid off all the small bills that were hanging over my head, and I've worked out an easy, regular way to pay off the loan that did the trick.

"I'm through with money worries, thanks to the loan."

MRS. JOSEPH P. KENNEDY
Envoy's Wife in Hub

Mrs. Kennedy Mum on Plans

Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy, wife of the ambassador, was back in town today to spend the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Fitzgerald, and her son, Joseph, Jr.

In a brief interview at the airport in East Boston, Mrs. Kennedy declined to discuss family plans beyond saying the family would celebrate Thanksgiving at their Bronxville, N. Y., home and the Christmas holidays in Florida.

Asked to comment on reports no plans were being made for the ambassador's return to England, she replied, "You know I never discuss my husband's affairs."

Bullitt Offered Kennedy Post

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP)—Ambassador William C. Bullitt has been offered the post of envoy to Great Britain to succeed Joseph P. Kennedy, it is reported reliably after he disclosed that he had sought unsuccessfully to leave the government service.

Informed sources said Bullitt still was considering a request that he accept the London assignment but was disinclined to do so for the same reason that he submitted his resignation as ambassador to France.

Bullitt, in a brief statement, said he did this because he "felt that I could be of more service to my country if I were free to write and speak without the restriction imposed by official position."

Revolt in Iron Guard Reported

BUDAPEST, Nov. 15 (AP)—The Hungarian press displayed today under large headlines reports of a revolt in the ranks of Rumanian Iron Guardists in which one person was said to have been killed and seven injured at Bucharest.

The reports filtering through strict Rumanian censorship, followed publication of an announcement from Bucharest that three high ranking members of the Iron Guard had been expelled.

The revolt said to have been directed against the Iron Guard leader Horia Sima, grew partly out of a severe economic crisis in Rumania following the entrance of Germany troops into the country despite the stern nationalistic precepts of its founder, the late Corneliu Codreanu.

RUMAN ENVOY AT VATICAN

VATICAN CITY, Nov. 15 (AP)—The new Rumanian minister to the Holy See, Basil Vitrisco, presented his credentials to Pope Pius XII today preliminary to introducing Rumanian Chief of State Ion Antonescu to the Pontiff tomorrow. Antonescu arrived here yesterday.

Lady Godiva's Ride Gave Coventry Fame

Coventry, the famous English city wrecked by Nazi air bombers today, has been a center of pageantry since Lady Godiva rode through its streets.

Its cathedral (St. Michael's), [illegible] the old castle and [illegible] combine to give the finest examples of the perpendicular style of [illegible] in England. A steeple rises 303 feet and with the steeples of Holy Trinity and Christ [illegible] has formed a striking group that has caused Coventry to be called "The City of Three Spires."

The 15th century glass [illegible] of the five large windows of the cathedral apse was removed at the start of the war.

95 MILES FROM LONDON

Coventry is 95 miles northwest of London, in the heart of the industrial midlands, with a normal population of around 190,000. Some of its ancient fortifications and half-timbered houses remain, but the city's many industries, among them motor manufacture, weaving, dyeing, watch-making and metal works, have robbed it of much picturesqueness.

It owes its existence to a Benedictine monastery [illegible] Earl Leofric and his wife, Lady Godiva, in 1015. The town's fame for pageantry has been manifested up to present time in a triennial processional show in honor of Godiva, who unwittingly tempted Tyeeping Tom of Coventry" by riding, clad only in her flowing tresses, through the streets on a horse in order to persuade the earl to remit noxious taxes.

MODERN LADY GODIVAS

The Godivas of latter-day processions have worn bathing suits, and there have been rousing controversies over even this degree of attire.

Two familiar expressions, True as Coventry [illegible] and To send to Coventry," come from the town. The first grew out of Coventry's opposition for [illegible] The second is believed to have [illegible] during the 17th century civil war, when the citizens of Parliamentarian sent groups of Royalists men to imprisonment at Coventry.

FRANKFURTER 58 TODAY

WAR'S WORST RAID LEAVES COVENTRY IN FLAMES

bombs and their explosions and the roar of anti-aircraft cannonade.

2 HOSPITALS HIT

Searchlights stabbed vainly through the shroud of smoke in an attempt to spot the raiders. Rifles and machine guns crackled as the city's defenders tried to shoot scores of flares out of the sky.

At least two hospitals were hit. There were casualties in one; in another, all glass was blown from the operating theater.

Store after store was damaged, but authorities said that supplies were not affected materially and that there would be no food shortage.

The aeronautical expert of the press association also said the Germans "failed lamentably" to hit military targets.

While the fires still crackled late this afternoon, German raiders returned again to the onslaught.

DUCHESS ESCAPES

One member of the Royal family, the Duchess of Gloucester, escaped injury during the unprecedented attack. The duchess yesterday officially visited this city and spent the night in the country home of the Earl of Dudley, just outside the city limits.

One of the most important members of the British cabinet, Minister of Supply Herbert Morrison, also was in the neighborhood during the raid, but was understood to have escaped.

Berlin dispatches said the Coventry raid was directed against the British airplane industry. The Morris-Bristol, Rover and Napier works and a General Electric plant are located in Coventry.

The savage German raids on Coventry failed to cripple any center of war production, it was announced authoritatively in London. British officials made no the attack, described as one of attempt to minimize severity of the most violent of the war, but despite the fact the Germans used several hundred light and heavy bombers they failed utterly in an obvious attempt to put a crimp in any of the gigantic industrial plants in the Coventry region, officials said. —Editor's Note.

The population was officially described as having gone through an "ordeal with great courage" and heroism.

The city, with a population of about 190,000, is one of England's most important industrial cities and is located about 75 miles northwest of London.

It has been one of the German's most regular targets in bombing raids on England.

A communique said "it is feared that extensive damage was done and many buildings destroyed, including the cathedral."

FIRES BREAK OUT

"The city suffered very seriously and the people bore their ordeal with great courage," it added.

At least two raiders were shot down, the British said.

The scale of the raid, the communique said, was "comparable with those of the largest night attack on London." Fires were reported to have broken out at many points and "indiscriminate bombardment of the whole city followed."

Intensive anti-aircraft fire was reported to have kept the invaders high and "hindered accurate bombing of industrial targets."

"There will be many stories of heroism to be told when it is possible to collect them," an official report of the raid stated.

At least 40 planes came over in regular waves from dusk to dawn, it was said, and casualties included members of the civil defense corps and the fire and police services.

By mid-day measures were already under way to take care of the homeless at feeding centers and to find temporary homes for them.

As the night progressed authorities found it necessary to use compulsion in evacuating residents from many homes owing to the necessity of dynamiting many buildings to isolate huge fires spread by the Nazi bombs.

Many residents of the city went to the surrounding woods and fields for the rest of the night to escape what was termed in Coventry the "worst indiscriminate aerial bombardment of the entire war."

RAID WORKERS KILLED

One outstanding feature of the raid was the extraordinarily high number of air raid precaution workers who were killed or wounded—grim testimony to the heroic manner in which they worked in the streets throughout the night at the height of the attack.

Bombs fell, too, over a wide area of the West Midlands, outside Coventry, causing many casualties.

A south coast town also had its longest air raid of the war last night. A large number of bombs were dropped, and 300 persons were removed from their homes. But it was reported a four-year-old child was the only fatality.

It was felt in London that Germany is now taking a leaf from the British book and is commencing intensive assaults upon specific industrial and war-making areas in the hope of damaging productive capacity.

It is now obvious, observers said, that the few bombers which staged nuisance raids on London early last night were merely attempting to keep the capital's defenses busy while great masses of bombers surged over the Midlands.

British, Nazi Guns in Big Duel Over Dover Strait

DOVER, Eng., Nov. 15 (INS)—British and German long-range guns fought a violent artillery duel across the Straits of Dover in brilliant sunshine today.

The battle began just before daybreak when the German "Big Berthas" began hurling shells at the English southeast coast.

During the night the German guns fired 10 shells that fell in the Dover area, killing and injuring a number of persons and destroying some houses. Authorities said that casualties were not heavy.

At 9 a. m., just as the mist was lifting over the straits, British guns mounted on the Kent coast fired on the German gun positions.

As soon as the British guns went into action an observation balloon was sent up by the Germans. Watchers were able to see the balloon floating high over the French cliffs.

For two hours both sides blazed away and the coastline shook to the crash of explosions as shells rocketed in both directions.

LONDON, Nov. 15 (AP)—British fighters dispersed a squadron of German warplanes over a southern coast town this morning in the first daylight activity of the air war today.

Two air raid warnings were sounded in the town by mid-morning.

British reports said the Germans succeeded in dropping only three bombs inland in their first forays.

The English Channel was smooth and there were scattered clouds.

Eight aged women were reported killed in one of the London hospitals bombed during the night.

SHELTER HIT

In a raid this morning one man was killed and five injured in a London home. Nine people escaped death, although five suffered injuries when a bomb hit the entrance of an underground shelter.

Two invading planes flying high over the Thames Estuary were said to have been driven off by fighters as they approached London this morning.

British planes rained bombs around Berlin railway stations last night and started fires, the air ministry announced today.

RAIL STATIONS BLASTED

A communique said 10 British planes were lost in the raids, which also included attacks on 26 airdromes and on harbors and shipping in ports from Stavangar, Norway, to Lorient, German submarine base on the French coast.

Bright moonlight favored a "heavy attack [illegible]," the air ministry said.

"High explosive bombs fell on and around Schlesischer Station and its freight yards," the communique said. "Railway yards at the Putlitz-Station and Lehrter stations, at Anhalter Station in the center of the city and at Tempelhof airdrome were attacked and fires started."

Bomb Shatters Buckingham Palace Windows

LONDON, Nov. 15 (AP)—It was disclosed today that a bomb struck the grounds of Buckingham Palace recently, shattering priceless figured glass windows of the palace picture gallery.

At the same time disclosure was made that the famous Theater Royal, Drury Lane, was damaged in a recent raid. A bomb crashed through the roof, gallery, two balconies and exploded in the orchestra.

mother. No trace of him was found, however.

An 18-year-old blonde girl, who admitted she had expected a visit from Gould during the evening, was discovered in the apartment and taken to the Dudley st. station for questioning. Four Roxbury men, thought to be close acquaintances of the sought youth, likewise were questioned.

KIDNAPED AT NOON

The kidnaping occurred at noon Flint, accustomed to the peaceful routine of a little Vermont town, was so shaken by his experience that he could scarcely hold a cup of coffee as he told police of station 9 what happened.

Flint said he had driven up to the home of Frank Derbyshire, Gould's father-in-law, in South Royalton, Vt., when a youth stepped up to the machine and inquired for some government cards.

As the carrier reached into a compartment of the machine to get them the young farmhand-bandit produced a sawed-off shotgun from under his coat, thrust it at Flint's breast and said:

"Now do as I tell you."

He got into the rear seat of the machine, dropped the gun in a coat to conceal it and placed the weapon between Flint and his son.

"Drive where I tell you," he commanded.

Flint started off. As the miles rolled past Flint feared he might be taken far from home and tried to argue his captor out of taking the trip. He offered him $56 he had in his possession.

CHRISTMAS CASH

He had set aside $40 of this sum to buy Christmas presents for his wife and children. The bandit rejected the money, but later, as they were passing through Nashua, N. H., he ordered Flint to turn it over to him.

Flint again begged him to let him return home for the boy's sake. The convict remained obdurate.

"I've got one federal rap against me and it doesn't make any difference if I have another," he said.

On reaching Boston Gould directed Flint where to go. At Eustis and Washington sts., he ordered him to stop and at this busy intersection leaped out and vanished in the crowd.

Before leaving home Gould left this note for his wife living with her mother in Weymouth:

"To My Bunny Dearest: No matter what happens I'll go down loving you. I can't stand being where we were married. I see you here all the time. I am in a daze. It seems as though you are always beside me as in this picture (He enclosed the picture).

"Goodby My Darling.

"Your loving husband, Paul, always."

Boy, 15, Faces Hanging For Murder in Holdup

SYDNEY, Nova Scotia, Nov. 15 (AP)—Fifteen-year-old Robert Smith today stood sentenced to be hanged Jan. 22 for the killing of Angus (Klondyke) MacIsaac, 65-year-old farmer, on Sept. 25 in a robbery attempt.

The jury that convicted the youth last week of murder recommended clemency but Justice W. L. Hall had no alternative under Canadian law. The recommendation may be considered, however, in case of an appeal.

Dan Angus MacIsaac, 14, identified as a distant relative of the victim, was acquitted of a murder charge yesterday in the same slaying.

AUSTEN LAKE writes a feature article every day in the Boston Evening American.

4 IN POLICE LINEUP

Four Roxbury youths suspected of a score of burglaries and automobile thefts in Boston and Brookline were due to face witnesses and detectives at a police headquarters lineup today. They are in custody of Mattapan police.

BETRAYED BY KISS OF DEATH

NEW YORK, Nov. 15 (AP)—"Red Murray" Fershing, 40, ex-convict and parole violator, was killed in a barroom gun battle with three detectives after receiving a "kiss of death" from a former St. Louis beauty.

His gun emptied in a fusillade that terrified 15 patrons, Fersiling fell with six slugs in his body. He died at the feet of the woman who had identified him a few moments earlier with a kiss.

BEAUTY WINNER

Detective John C. Kenny identified the woman as Dorothy Mori, 34, winner of a beauty contest in St. Louis in 1927. He said she arranged the rendezvous and tipped off police by way of balancing accounts for a beating Fershing gave her a week ago.

Tonight Kenny and a pal were at the bar of the saloon with Miss Mori. Fershing, cold at the moment, joined her at the bar and they kissed.

FIRES FIVE SHOTS

Kenny moved in from his position, as two other detectives emerged from a booth and closed in quickly. Before they could grasp him, Fershing whipped out a revolver and fired five shots, none of which took effect.

Catching Fershing, Kenny drew his service revolver and fired six shots. Another detective joined in the shooting.

Cornelius O'Keim, a bystander, was struck in the right leg.

Miss Mori told police that Fershing on several occasions had threatened to kill her. On her charge a police alarm was sent out for Fershing.

Pair Hunted as Crash Follows Break Chase

Two youths who crashed into a police car while fleeing the scene of an attempted break in Dorchester were being sought by police today.

The pair were trapped in the rear of the Coody Distributing Company, a liquor warehouse in Clayton st., but smashed into the cruising car in a wild dash for freedom.

Secred Heart Group To Produce Operetta

A favorite of music lovers, Gilbert & Sullivan's Iolanthe, will be produced Nov. 18 and 19 by the Sacred Heart Singers in the North Quincy High School auditorium.

The singing club, organized two years ago by its musical director, Rev. Irving L. Gifford, D. D., Sacred Heart Church pastor, has the unique objective of producing only operettas.

Frankness Costs Alimony Boost

BROCKTON, Nov. 15—Judge Henry K. Stone of probate court had just reduced alimony payments from $4 to $3 a week for Edward H. Grover of Stoughton when the husband said he asked:

"Now, when the divorce becomes absolute, she is no longer my wife and I don't have to pay her anything, do I?" he inquired of the court.

"You don't want your wife to go on welfare, do you?" Judge Stone asked.

"I don't care what she does," replied Grover.

Thereupon, the judge restored the original order of $4 weekly payments and warned Grover that if he did not meet them he would be sent to jail for contempt.

Maple in Statement On Army Dismissal

Only terse comment was forthcoming today from Dale H. Maple, 21, Harvard Junior, on his dismissal from the R. O. T. C., generally attributed to pro-Hitler statements allegedly made by him and appearing in the Harvard Crimson, undergraduate newspaper.

Asked about one statement credited to him that "even a bad dictatorship is better than a good democracy," Maple replied, "I wouldn't call it an interview." He added that he understood his dismissal was taken for the "convenience of the government."

TARANTO LOSSES CHECKED

TORONTO Nov. 15 (AP)—Further reconnaissance of the Italian naval base at Taranto has established without doubt that three Italian battleships were crippled by the British Navy's torpedo planes in the raid of Nov. 11, the Admiralty declared today.

Wednesday's communique reported two battleships severely damaged and a third probably crippled.

Efforts are being made to salvage the battleship of the "Littorio" class which was previously seen with her forecastle under water and a heavy list to starboard, the Admiralty said.

Auxiliary and salvage vessels are lying on both sides of the ship and the nets have been laid all round for her protection. Pumping is in progress. The bows of the ship have been raised and she now has a list to port.

The reconnaissance has confirmed that two battleships of the "Cavour" class are aground. One of these is beached and an auxiliary vessel is lying alongside her.

The second "Cavour" class battleship appears to have been abandoned. She is lying heeled over to starboard with only the forward part of her upper works above water.

The pilot of one of the reconnaissance craft has reported that four shapes can be seen under water at the entrance to the graving dock in the inner harbor.

F.D. Names Millis To Labor Board

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP)—President Roosevelt nominated Harry A. Millis, Chicago educator and economist today to a five-year term on the National Labor Relations Board, taking the place vacated by Chairman J. Warren Madden.

The President also submitted to the Senate a nomination for Madden to be a judge of the United States Court of Claims.

Millis, 67, was a member of the labor board before it was reconstituted and given greater powers under the Wagner Act in 1935. He is expected in some quarters to cooperate with Board Member William M. Leiserson in the latter's program for changes in staff and procedure. Edwin S. Smith is the third member of the board.

Word also circulated in informed circles today that Owen D. Young was to head a three-member board to be assigned a broad study of transportation problems.

Hitler at Luncheon To Honor Japanese

BERLIN, Nov. 14 (AP)—Adolf Hitler attended a luncheon at the Japanese embassy today celebrating the 2600th anniversary of the founding of the Japanese empire. Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop and other German leaders were among the guests of Ambassador Saburo Kurusu.

TURKEY PRICES FIRM NOW, BUT STORM MAY BOOST COST

While poultry dealers quoted higher wholesale prices for turkeys, retailers at Faneuil Hall Market today said turkey prices for the present would remain unchanged.

There was a possibility, however, that the recent mid western storm may reduce the flow of turkeys to the east and therefore increase the price.

Some turkeys are selling for 28 a lb., although the best birds run from 32 to 35 cents a lb. Broilers are 28 to 32 a lb.; roasting chickens 28 to 30 a lb.; fowl, 25 a lb.; fryers, 27 a lb.; ducklings, 22 a lb.; capon, 35 to 38 a lb.; squab, 50 to 75 each; pigeons, 25 to 40 each; guinea chickens, $2.10 a pair; chicken liver, 60 a lb.; chicken fat, 15 a lb.; mallard ducks, $3 a pair; pheasants, $3 a pair for the female and $3 each for the males.

BUTTER GOES UP

Butter, as predicted in this column earlier, is up a few cents this week and eggs are down. One pound boxes and prints which were 45 cents last week are now selling at 47. One pound bricks, 37 last week, are 39 this week, and tub butter has jumped from 42 cents to 44 a pound in the last week. The biggest jump was seen in unsalted butter, which rose from 50 to 55 a lb.

The best eggs are down to 41 a dozen from 49 and the medium sized eggs are down to 42 cents a dozen from 44.

Meat prices for the first time in weeks have remained fairly stable. Most of the bear, featured last week at 50 a lb., is scarce this week, although the price has remained the same. Pork and lamb, which dropped last week, are still selling at 25 and 28 cents a lb., respectively.

Bottom of the round for pot roast is a good buy at 23 cents a pound, about the only meat item to drop this week. Top of the round is still 50 a lb and bottom of the round is 40.

FACE OF RUMP

Porterhouse steak is 70 a lb; face of rump, who'e, is 34 a lb., lamb chops are 50 a lb. for the kidneys and 40 for the rib; pork chops are 35 a lb. hamburg starts at 25 a lb., beef kidneys, 15 a lb., lamb flanks for stew, 15 a lb; fore quarters of lamb which can be used for roast, chops or stew, 15 a lb; sirloin leaves, 60 a lb; hind quarters of lamb 28 a lb; corned beef 20 a lb.; legs of lamb 24 a lb.; lamp of veal 35 a lb., brains veal or beef 25 a lb; beef kidneys, 15 each.

EVENING AMERICAN, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1940.

STORIES about job-selling and job-racketeering at Camp Edwards and Fort Devens have become so widespread as to be common gossip.

This talk may have a serious effect upon public morale behind the national defense drive.

We do not know whether the stories are true or not and we suspect that many of them are untrue or exaggerated, but we do know that they are extremely harmful, true or false, and that they must be stopped.

The way to stop them is to investigate them.

If they are the malicious fabric of the imagination of disgruntled job-seekers, let the public be so told.

If they are true, let the corrupt conditions be exposed and the guilty punished.

We can ill afford any scandal in the defense program in Massachusetts and we can ill afford any stories of scandal if none exists.

Yet the stories have been prevalent a long time and nobody seems to be doing anything to stop them.

If there is a question of jurisdiction involved, let there be a co-operative investigation by Federal authorities, the State government, the Army, organized labor and officials of the construction companies doing the work.

A SALARY BOOST for the Governor of Massachusetts is the aim of Senator Eugene H. Giroux of Somerville, Democratic floor leader in the Legislature's upper house.

The Senator is filing a bill to raise the Executive's remuneration from $10,000 to $25,000.

This would cause our Governor to share with the Governor of New York State the distinction of being the highest paid in the United States.

All other Governors receive less.

The Governors of Colorado, Idaho, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Missouri, New Hampshire, Vermont and New Mexico serve for $5000 a year.

South Dakota is the least liberal. Its Governor gets $3000.

Maryland and North Dakota are more generous. They pay $4500 and $4000, respectively.

The average gubernatorial compensation is $7700—a sum considerably less than the salary our Governor now receives.

BLOOD TESTS should be compulsory for all persons who apply for marriage licenses in Massachusetts.

Legislators ought to consider it their duty to revise the statutes to include this intelligent requirement as soon as they convene in January.

Twenty-two of the 48 States are combatting social diseases in this manner, safeguarding men and women contemplating matrimony and protecting the unborn from the contagion that has been a principal cause of infirmity, imbecility, insanity and blindness throughout the centuries.

Three New England States—New Hampshire, Connecticut and Rhode Island—have Blood Test laws.

Why should we be less concerned with the health and safety of our people than our neighbors?

Why should we defeat the intent and purpose of wisely conceived legislation in adjacent States by allowing persons from those States to come to Massachusetts and wed without blood tests?

REFUGEE DOCTORS see opportunity in the practice of medicine in Massachusetts.

Dr. Stephen Rushmore, secretary of the State Board of Registration in Medicine, reports that 105 of the 293 persons seeking to be licensed as physicians are graduates of foreign schools.

Alien doctors are eligible to apply for the right to practice in Massachusetts providing they have taken out their first citizenship papers.

If they meet the State Board's requirements, they get licenses. Later, however, they must acquire full citizenship.

Many States are more strict. They demand full citizenship AT THE START.

HOPEFUL NEWS comes from the United States Savings and Loan League.

After nine years of deflation, assets of savings and loan associations and co-operative banks of the country are rising.

The picture in Massachusetts is particularly bright.

The resources of our thrift and home financing institutions now total $492,254,576.

In size and strength, they are exceeded only by similar banks in Ohio and New Jersey.

We should be proud of this record. It proves our people's ability to weather the ravages of depression and build for the future.

On The Side

-:- -:- By E. V. DURLING

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Nov. 15—There are three places I have always wanted to see, Corpus Christi, Texas; Natchez, Miss., and Terre Haute, Ind. I am now in Terre Haute, on the banks of the Wabash. It was here Paul Dresser was born and in 1897, when thinking of Terre Haute, he wrote that song which I feel we should all now join in and sing:

Oh! the moonlight's fair tonight along the Wabash,
From the fields there comes the breath of new-mown hay,
Thro' the sycamores the candle lights are gleaming
On the banks of the Wabash far away.

PIG raising seems a major industry hereabouts. Saw some huge porkers, one about the size of a small cow . . . Many signs refer to "highway safety." A great contribution to highway safety would be more safe highways. When cars going in opposite directions at 80 miles an hour and up have only a couple of feet leeway on a narrow highway, all the autoists on that road are just flirting with fate. Saw the remains of one car that had been hit by a truck . . . Passed several Model T cars. Wonder how many of those are still in the highways. Mr. Ford made his last Model T in 1928 . . . We passed the boyhood home of James Whitcomb Riley and a lot of other boyhood homes and birthplaces of famous men. There's hardly any use in my becoming famous because they tore my boyhood home down and built a truck garage on the lot.

ETHEL MERMAN IN "PANAMA HATTIE"
Durling Says She's His Favorite Musical Comedy Actress

BEFORE we started this trip we stopped off in New York . . "Just where are we going," my girl friend asked rather coldly as we climbed into the car in Jersey. "To see America," I said. "Before we start to see America," she replied, "how about driving up to New York to see Ethel Merman in 'Panama Hattie'?" Inasmuch as Miss Merman is my favorite musical comedy actress this seemed reasonable to me. So we saw "Panama Hattie," stayed overnight in the great city and then started out to see America.

TERRE HAUTE is a spirited little city. The citizens, young and old, seemed possessed of more than the ordinary quota of the joy of living. At the hotel tonight, the younger set is swinging it with a "My Buddy Dance." To one of the youngsters I said: "Looks like quite a party." He said: "It's not bad, but not so good as the Sweater Swing dance we had last night." At the "Sweater Swing" dance everybody wore sweaters. Some jitterbugs, the kids in this territory . . . It's quite a sporting town. That great trotting horse, Nancy Hanks, was a Terre Haute product. The old boy that told me that said; "John L. Sullivan loved Terre Haute. He used to visit us often."

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

-:- MY DAY

CHICAGO, Ill., Thursday—On our arrival in Springfield, Ill., yesterday afternoon, there seemed to be a little difference of opinion as to exactly what my program was to be. One person said I was to go to the hotel and hold a press conference, another person said I was to go immediately to lay a wreath on Lincoln's Tomb.

The crowd at the station was very friendly and the governor's wife and the mayor's wife and other people who met us were very kind. We finally drove to the hotel, discovered that I was not needed there at once, and proceeded to Lincoln's Tomb. This is a very imposing monument which rises high above everything else in the cemetery.

When I was there with my husband in 1932, I do not think I was really able to see how fine the marble is along the walls of the corridors leading to the tomb. The veins are perfectly matched and the colors very beautiful. I liked all the replicas of the different Lincoln statues. One can not stand before his tomb and not feel a sense of awe, for here lies buried one of our greatest men, who lives forever in the hearts of the people he preserved as a nation.

A FRIEND of mine went to the Lincoln Memorial in Washington not long ago and stood before that beautiful statue. She reviewed in her mind all the things that had been said in the campaign of 1864 against this Lincoln, before whose statue she now stood with tears in her eyes. From the group around her she suddenly heard the voice of a young boy.

"Grandpa, what was the name of the man who ran against Lincoln in 1864?

"Well now, son, I can't seem to remember just who that was."

"I thought surely you'd know."

"Somehow the name slips me, but we can look it up in the encyclopedia when we get home."

"But, grandpa, I did look it up already and it doesn't say."

"Well, then what difference does it make?"

"None, only I kinda wondered."

So you see, all the bitterness, all the lies of that campaign have faded out, and only the goodness and fineness of Lincoln remain to inspire his countrymen of today.

In Springfield we visited the Crippled Children's Hospital and another hospital before we returned to the hotel.

We returned this morning to Chicago and I have had the pleasure of meeting the Democratic National Committeeman from Oklahoma, Mr. Kerr, and his wife and daughter. Now I am about to leave for Kenosha, Wisconsin, for this evening's lecture.

RUNYON STILL SHUNS FOOTBALL

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, Nov. 15—When sports writers retire to other businesses, they usually continue to attend all sporting events except football games. They go to prize fights, baseball games, hockey matches, but never to football games. This dislike was born of the many years of climbing to the press sections in the uppermost reaches of the college stadia . . . Damon Runyon reminisced of the last Harvard game he covered, when he carried his typewriter up the steps of the stadium, slowly, wearily. Half way up he met Westbrook Pegler and W. O. McGeehan resting in the aisle. "If I ever quit this business," Runyon gaspingly vowed—a vow in which they joined—"I'll never see another football game again." And he hasn't.

He sent word Tuesday that he had participated in the bombing of Munich . . . Ex-Gov. Charles Whitman now is wearing a steel brace, because of a spinal injury . . . The Police Department is showing new activity in the famed Elwell murder case now more than 20 years old . . . Gene Tierney flew in from Hollywood on the Stratoliner and complained that her ears still hurt her. She convinced her escort that the only relief for this pain was high altitude. He found it for her at the Rainbow Room.

RESULT: Ex-Gov. Cox of Ohio, who headed the Democratic ticket when Franklin D. Roosevelt was a candidate for Vice-President 20 years ago, told this story on Election night . . . After his campaign was over, Cox returned to Ohio and on the night of the election he sat in his newspaper office watching the returns posted on a screen across the street . . . The returns which were reported first showed: "Harding 424, Cox 7 . . . Harding 1284, Cox 27" . . . When the final results were in, an associate told Cox: "Well, it looks like the people have spoken" . . . "Yes," sighed the defeated candidate, "but they didn't have to speak so loudly."

MISTAKE: Count Rene de Chambrun, son-in-law of Pierre Laval, is leaving America to return to Vichy . . . Chambrun, seated with a group of his colleagues at the 21 Club, met Charlie Chaplin and began to enunciate some of the principles of the Vichy government. "Italy and France never should have warred against each other," he stated. "The people of Italy and France have much in common—but England kept them apart" . . . Chaplin listened, silently—and Chambrun continued . . . this time against the English people . . . "I think perhaps you should know this," Chaplin softly reminded him, "I'm an Englishman."

POWER: Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., made an address in Chicago, where he heard the toastmaster describe him as the son of the man who came into power seven years ago . . . "It is not my father who is in power," was young Roosevelt's opening line. "It's the American people who are in power—and my father is merely their spokesman" . . . With that point settled, F. D. Jr. began to enumerate the virtues of the New Deal, beginning with the days following the bank holiday. He prefaced this list by saying: "And in 1933 WHEN my father came into POWER."

SWANK: Lewis Milestone, the director, just arrived in New York and Tuesday night he toured the newer cafes . . . "At one night club," he reported, "where the management admitted only the ultra-smart people of New York, I recognized the doorman who wore a tuxedo. He was an old, tough prize fighter with cauliflower ears. I asked him: 'What are you doing here?' . . . He said: 'I work here at the door. My job is to keep out anybody I know.'"

GREETING: Bernard Baruch was instrumental in bringing, among others, two young British refugees from London. On their first day here Baruch arranged a dinner for the youngsters. As Baruch sat down to dine, the older child immediately placed a pea upon his knife and flipped it at the tall, gray, dignified host.

SUAVEST OF THE magicians, Cardini is going to play his first Boston nightclub date December 1 . . . The first man to do difficult card tricks while wearing gloves, the English wizard has been signed by Lou Walters, of the Latin Quarter.

CARDINI'S BOOKING shows that Boston is recognized as a sure-fire city for magic . . . The shrewd Mr. Walters was once a good theatrical booker . . . Since his return to the nightclub field, Lou's possible edge on most of his rivals has been demonstrated by his choice of attractions (at reasonable rates)

BUT IT DOESN'T REQUIRE A GENIUS to recognize that the public taste locally has run toward magicians . . . Dr. Giovanni's success at the Ritz-Carlton in elongating a two-week booking into practically a career—ten consecutive weeks at the same stand—should have been the tip-off . . . For that matter, it was the tip-off.

THE MAYFAIR HAD CONSIDERABLE success with the quick-fingered Guili-Guili, whose stay coincided in part with Giovanni's . . . The Cocoanut Grove employed two different magic acts, and Blackstone came to the Keith-Boston . . . Then Dante came to town.

OF THE FEW "NAMES" in the ranks of the magicians, Cardini's stands very near the top . . . It is in acquiring one of the more famous magii that Mr. Walters (we think) has been more astute than his fellow-bonifaces of the cabarets . . . In a way, it is possible that Sophie Tucker's impending arrival at the Mayfair (Monday) was an influence in the Cardini booking . . . The beloved Sophie is the first established star to be booked this season.

HER PRESENCE AT ANY NIGHTCLUB is immediately reflected—or has been in the past—by dwindling receipts at competing spots . . . Also, there has been a reaction for a few days along the Rialto after a star like Miss Tucker has come, played and gone . . . The community budget, obviously, has just so much money apportioned under the luxury item: "nightclubbing" . . . Soph may start a wave of "name" bookings as the holidays approach—although we doubt it . . . Anyway, we are to have Cardini.

THE NICEST GESTURE OF THE WEEK was the appearance last night of Ranny Weeks and his entire band on the floor of—mirabile dictu—the floor of the Cocoanut Grove . . . This is not Ranny's customary platform, as habitues of the Mayfair very well know . . . If there is a spirited rivalry in the Brightlights Belt, the competition of the Grove and the Mayfair is it.

BUT THERE WAS RANNY AND HIS MERRY MEN tooting away in the strange precincts of the Mayfair's across-the-street rival . . . And they were serenading Mickey Alpert . . . For 73 weeks, Mickey and a dozen musicians have been engaged in shattering modern Boston records for long-runs of a musical organization. (We say "modern" because there seems to be no available records of how long Leo Reisman played at the Brunswick's old Egyptian Room) . . . Last night's "Theatrical Guest Night" at the Grove was made a reverse-English function, with M. Alpert being greeted himself—and how—instead of greeting visiting stars.

VISITING STARS THERE WERE—including Dante, and Elbie Fletcher of the Pirates—but the night was Mickey's . . . He was presented a funereal set of bouquets (as a "rib"), and a red-wig in replica of that worn by Louis Calhern as "Father Day" in "Life With Father" . . . And speaking of "Life With Father," the stars of that piece seem to have resisted the pleas of local bandleaders specializing in guest nights . . . Dorothy Gish remains the "prize" of this extra-curricular after-dark activity.

WEEKLY QUOTATION FROM Milton Berle's "Berleing Point"—an excellent (and acid) comic pillar in Variety: "Fanny Brice has been doing Baby Snooks so long she dreamed last night that Jessel proposed to her."

GERSHWIN MUSICAL FOR M-G-M STARS

By Louella O. Parsons

Tony Martin

CHICAGO, Nov. 15—How do you like [illegible] musical comedy cast—Ann Sothern, Eleanor Powell, Tony Martin in George Gershwin's hit of [illegible] "Lady Be Good?" That, my friends, is the [illegible] package M-G-M is wrapping up for a New Year's [illegible] date. It's amusing that Ann, who writes songs in her spare time, will play a song writer; Eleanor Powell, who has been ill and off the screen so long plays a dancer and Tony Martin will be a radio singer. That's what I call casting to type.

If the present setup is any indication they're mad for musicals at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. "Bitter Sweet" is playing currently. "Ziegfeld Girl" is coming up and now "Lady, Be Good." If you remember this as well as I do you'll recall some of the best Gershwin numbers originated in this one, including "Lady, Be Good," "Fascinating Rhythm" and "So Am I." Arthur Freed will produce with Busz Berkeley directing. By the way, the musical formerly announced for Ann Sothern, "Feeling Like a Million," will follow "Lady, Be Good."

BINNIE BARNES is contemplating the role offered her in "New Wine" not only because she wants to remain on tour with us but because she is also being deluged with stage plays. I never go into her dressing room without finding her reading one of the many sent her by New York producers. Although Binnie is a very well known actress she says that this personal appearance tour has done more than anything in her entire life to promote her. She and I went to the B'nai Brith membership meeting and were introduced. I told of belonging to Mrs. Ida May Cummings' organization for aged Jewish people and Binnie made so many new friends with her nice little talk.

BEFORE we left Chicago a group of us went to Pizzeria-Napolitana, where many of the opera folk and music lovers gather for song and spaghetti. Everybody sings on the slightest provocation and when one girl burst into an aria from "La Boheme" so charmingly I asked her name. She is Maryum Horm and was studying opera in Europe when the war broke out. Hollywood scouts—here is a real bet for you! When I was introduced as Louella Parsons of Hollywood a man who had been joining in the songs rose and said: "If you're Louella Parsons—then I'm Douglas Fairbanks, Jr." Finally convinced, he sat down and proved to be Walter R. Costello, vice president of the Terminal National Bank, who was there with his son. It was really a Bohemian evening and one of the sort I haven't enjoyed since I was a reporter on a Chicago paper.

CHATTER. Ronnie Warner, who is H. B. Warner's daughter, says she is still Tom Brown's fiance and is very upset over reports of his attention to Julie Stevens of the "Male Animal" company. I'm sorry if there are any hurt feelings in this—but I can only report the news as I find it. I understand Julie Stevens is getting a divorce and certainly all the time we played in Chicago she was everywhere with Tom, saying she expected to marry him as soon as she was free.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD AND CHICAGO: Just received a wire that Constance Bennett's divorce was granted in Reno. She will return to Hollywood Saturday; had a talk with Carmen Miranda at Chez Paree and her accent is the cutest I ever heard. She sings her South American numbers and then ends up with "Oh Johnny" in broken English. She leaves for the Coast Sunday for "The Road to Rio." So far she can't speak English well enough to say her lines but she's studying and says: "I work verra, verra hard and when you come back to Hollywood I speak to you in English"; Jack Malloy hosted our party the last evening in Chicago at the Chez Paree and it was very gay.

TALK IS that George Raft has bought a night club in Miami. He'll have competition from Slapsy Maxie Rosenbloom, who is opening his salon there some time after Dec. 10, when he closes in Hollywood; the gorgeous Camelia Room in the Hotel Drake is the talk of the town. Dorothy Draper is the decorator and she's still taking bows; Ad Randall has been taking Jean Acker to dinner in Hollywood.

PLENTY OF THRILLS, SUSPENSE IN 'ESCAPE' AT LOEW'S

Acting Laurels To Nazimova

By PEGGY DOYLE

The scintillating suspense of Ethel Vance's best-selling novel, "Escape," that had most of us gulping it up in one reading has been caught in Metro's celluloid version.

It is a certainty that this hair-raising dramatization of the terrors of totalitarian existence in pre-World War II days will ring up impressive grosses in boxoffices throughout the country.

At Loew's Orpheum Theater, where it opened simultaneously with the State's first showing, it did capacity business through the day.

Not even chill winds could interfere with the magnetic pull of the marquee teaming — Norma Shearer and Robert Taylor. Even without this double dose of glamour, the novel's vast reading public would have been on hand to again suffer through the spine-tingling perils of gallant Emmy Ritter.

For the benefit of those readers not present at yesterday's unreelings, it is a pleasure to report that Mervyn Leroy, who produced and directed "Escape," has followed closely the melodramatic pattern of the book. "Escape," which Alexander Woollcott found to be the most exciting adventure story he had ever read, should not disappoint the well-upholstered tourist.

As in the book, the film opens with the arrival in Germany of Mark Preysing, young American in search of his actress-mother. Not so long before there had been a letter from her, obviously written in terrible haste, that had filled him with anxiety and fear.

At first, all his inquiries are met with disturbing evasions, blank politeness, curt advices to go home and let things be. It is mystifying and frightening, and suddenly his unspoken fears are confirmed. He learns that his mother is in a concentration camp awaiting execution on a treason charge.

From here on Leroy's direction is masterful, maintaining an excitement and suspense that are all compelling as Mark desperately attempts to save his mother. There is the accidental meeting with the American-born countess and her firm if gracious resistance to his pleas for help. The lawyer, Henning, and the commissioner are more brusque in their refusals. And, then, there is the prison doctor's astounding plan to get Emmy Ritter out of the camp and across the border and the hairbreath scheming to effect her escape.

Nazimova's Emmy Ritter is real enough to intrigue you at her plight. It is a standout performance, warm and sincere and sharply in contrast to the rather self-conscious portrayals of the co-starring Miss Shearer and Taylor.

Philip Dorn, young Hollander who acquires his American debut as the prison doctor, is superb. His performance is one of the year's best. Excellent characterizations, too, are Felix Bressart's terrified but loyal peasant, Albert Bessemann's brief bit as the lawyer Henning, Conrad Veidt's brilliantly conceived General Kurt von Kolb.

The second feature, "Hullabaloo," stars Frank Morgan in a song-embroidered romantic comedy.

NORMA SHEARER, who is co-starred with Robert Taylor in "Escape" on Loew's State and Orpheum screens.

Comedy Here Nov. 23

The "Romantic Mr. Dickens" opening has been upped to Saturday night, Nov. 23, at the Plymouth Theater. This is the comedy by H. H. and Marguerite Harper, starring Robert Keith.

Merry Comedy Hit Delights Para-Fenway Audiences

By PEGGY DOYLE

Dick Powell and Ellen Drew go the gamut from the seventh heaven to you-know-where and back again in "Christmas in July," which proves to be delightfully comic entertainment for a rainy day at the Paramount. It is also unreeling to chuckling audiences at the Fenway this week and we promise you that during its 66 minutes you'll forget to remember who's President or why you can't get around to your Dec. 25 shopping.

Credit for the all-around excellence of this Paramount production must go to Preston Sturges, wonder-man responsible for "The Great McGinty," the surprise picture of some months back.

Sturges wrote, directed and produced that one. He has done the same services for "Christmas in July," and has been able to get the most for Paramount's money out of a frail story, two not too skilled co-stars and a group of character actors whose talents have been rather neglected these many pictures.

The story? It might happen to any one of us hopeful gamblers. It has to do with a $20-a-week clerk who is competing in a $25,000 slogan contest, receives a phony telegram informing him he's the winner and has all the fun of actually being one.

Powell and his fiancee, Miss Drew, go their walking-on-the-air assignment with a captivating flair you'd never expected of them. Raymond Walburn, as the coffee tycoon almost ready for a padded cell when he discovers he's dispensed the top prize before his slogan judges have voted on the winner, does a sweet job.

Ernest Truex will engross you completely as the contest winner's boss who hangs on to his father's inheritance by not trusting his [illegible] judgment.

Other deft characterizations genuinely comic without being daffy are Franklin Pangborn's sycophantic announcer, Alexander Carr's Municipal Commissioner Schindel and Julius Tannen's Mr. Zimmerman.

On the same program "Cherokee Strip" gives Richard Dix another frontier-crashing opportunity.

Midnight Show At Globe Tonight

Globe Theater is initiating its first Friday midnight show tonight, with Hermine's Midget Revue from the New York World's Fair and the burlesque road show headed by Hub favorite Mae Brown as the co-featured attractions.

'Old Acquaintance' Opens Here Dec. 9

Kent Smith, seen here in William A. Brady's revival of "Outward Bound," has been importantly cast in John van Druten's new comedy, "Old Acquaintance," the Dwight Deere Wiman production opening at the Wilbur, Dec. 9. Jane Cowl and Peggy Wood will play the starring roles. "Old Acquaintance" goes into rehearsal Monday.

Disney's 'Fantasia' Hailed by Board

For the first time since the National Board of Review held its annual conference 26 years ago, this year it will devote a major session of its convention to the showing of a single motion picture, Walt Disney's "Fantasia," as a revolutionary event in the progress of the movies.

Soprano's First Concert Here

Along with beauty of voice and magnificent artistic promise, an unusual share of modesty may be claimed for Dorothy Maynor, the young Negro soprano, who gives her first Symphony Hall recital on Sunday afternoon.

When her ears were set ringing with the dictum that she was the "greatest vocal find" in 10 years Miss Maynor became very embarrassed and remarked shyly to an interviewer:

"I've always loved to sing. Now my great ambition is to show myself worthy of performing the great works of song composition."

Dog Meat Legalized For Use in Germany

BERLIN, Nov. 15 (AP)—A new law, effective, Jan. 1, today legalized the meat of dogs, foxes, bears and beavers for human consumption, but observers doubted the measure would greatly augment the Reich's food supply.

The law subjects these meats to the same rigid health inspection as beef and pork.

It indicates that such meats have been on German menus, probably in larger amounts recently, as people find that the weekly pound meat allowance in Germany is not sufficient.

Most observers here surmise, however, that the second war winter, hard as it may be, will treat Germany easier than almost any other country in continental Europe.

Even such a domestic animal as the horse is far from a common dish in Germany. If there is more than one horse restaurant in Berlin, it is not well known.

Neutral observers in Germany suspect that the hardest hit of any European people will be the French, whose northern food provinces were largely depopulated by the war during much of the growing season.

Denmark, Holland, Belgium and Poland are on a restricted diet. In Holland many cattle, pigs and chickens are being slaughtered to meet feed shortages. But the Germans say that only Norway may be expected to have difficulties with the bread ration.

The extent to which food supplies in the occupied areas is being drained into Germany is not known outside official circles. The Germans say it is being held down. They concede that some wheat from Russia was replaced by rye flour and by the occupying armies.

As for Germany's supplies, Adolf Hitler has asserted that food for the coming winter is assured. The wheat crop is reported to be but 2 per cent under the 1934-1939 average. The potato crop, it is estimated, not only will take care of the usual 18,000,000-ton household consumption, but also leave a balance for livestock feed.

PLANE PLANT CLOSED BY STRIKE

spokesman said they had received no official notification of a strike call.

The spokesman added that the management was still anxious to continue conferences and that a federal labor conciliator had been trying unsuccessfully during the night to reach responsible union executives.

The company has on hand orders for $39,000,000 worth of planes for the United States and another $11,000,000 worth for export.

The United Automobile Workers Union claims a membership of "more than 3000" of the 3700 production workers in the plant, which has a payroll of some 5200 employes.

L. H. Michener, regional director of the union, issued the strike order with a declaration that the company had failed to file an answer to the union's demands with a federal conciliator by the hour agreed upon, yesterday afternoon.

Union officials later made public a telegram sent to Lucien Sullivan, Deputy Commissioner of Labor Commissioner of Conciliation here, by Michener declaring it had not been filed for nearly two and a half hours after the agreed time.

FAIL TO AGREE

Since it did not meet the union demands, Michener added, the company's proposal would not have forced [illegible] a strike under the circumstances.

Instead of the 12 cent increase in minimum pay asked by the union, from 50 cents an hour to 65 cents, he declared the company offered "a slight wage increase" at the end of three months, with another "slight increase" three months later.

"The union is out to better conditions of the lower bracket employes immediately, and not at some future time," Michener said.

Vultee [illegible] and rejected the union proposal because they would increase the labor costs of the company in an amount equal to $1,411,624 per year, based upon present employment.

LISTEN, WORLD! By Elsie Robinson

LONGING for adventure? Sick of your job sick of doing the same thing over and over? Sick of seeing the same people, living in the same four walls?

And you want to go, don't you? Where? Anywhere. Anywhere away from here.

You're sure that if you could get away, life would be different. The nagging little fears, the stinging little frets, would drop away. You'd be happy again. And excited, and eager, as you haven't been for years. You'd be FREE.

But you wouldn't. You're just fooling yourself.

Need a change? Of course you do. We all need changes. We all need to go to new places, see new faces, think new thoughts.

But just going somewhere-else won't cure what ails you. Seeing something different won't solve your problems. Adventure isn't really what you need, though how often you cry, "If I could only live —live life—instead of just existing!"

ACTUALLY, you don't really want to live life. Actually, you want to escape life. That's why you're restless and irritable and bored.

You want to escape the things that make life hard for you. Competition . . . criticism . . . contacts and conflicts . . . all these things make life hard for you. And you think that if you were somewhere else, into new scenes, where you could meet new people, you could escape them.

But you couldn't.

For these things are a normal part of life—everywhere.

Life . . . that's what ails you. Self . . . that's what ails you.

And you're miserable and bored because you can't make a Going Partnership of Life and Self.

You wouldn't remedy that fact by going to the West Indies, to England, or Italy, or India, or Russia. You wouldn't remedy it by dropping housekeeping or letter filing and going on the stage—or writing columns for newspapers. Always Life will go with you. Always Self will go with you. And until you can adjust Self to Life, you'll never be happy anywhere.

STOP TRYING to run away from Life. Stop gazing, yearningly, toward the horizon for your Big Adventure. Your big adventure is here . . . Now. It is here, in the job you're doing. It is here in the people you've always known.

Study that job. There's pixie and puncl in it if you'll look for it. Study those people. There's mystery and loveliness and a strange glory in them if you'll recognize it.

Find the adventure that exists here, now, all around you, and then . . . and only then . . . will you be fit for the adventure that exists beyond the horizon.

Love and Marriage

Boy Friend Seems Imaginative

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I've been going with a boy almost a year now, and love him very much. We went to a party recently, and while there he told all my friends that we are going to get married in November. We [illegible] even asking me. He also told his parents.

Another time he said in the presence of my friends that it was going to buy me a diamond ring, and made a date for the next evening to pick out the one I wanted. When the next evening arrived, he didn't even mention the ring. And I'm all my friends want to see the ring.

He thinks it's a big joke and won't say so [illegible] to say. "Wouldn't everyone be surprised if they knew we really aren't going to get married?" It looks as if he's making a fool of me, although he does tell me he loves me. He also has broken other promises. My mother said to give him up, as he can't be trusted, and that marriage is too serious a thing to be joked about in this manner. What steps do you advise taking? MARYANNA.

The boy of whom you write me is probably too young and inexperienced to know how underbred are these things which he imagines to be jokes. I think you do well to take your mother's advice and drop him completely until he learns better manners.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

The girl I'm going with at present has well-to-do-parents, and they give her a very generous allowance. She wastes most of it on this and that foolishness, while I'm really hard up. I have a job but don't make much. This girl never notices that I don't have much, and though I've hinted she has never offered to lend me a cent.

I know she loves me, and we're planning to marry as soon as I get a substantial raise. Do you think it would be OK for me to borrow from her occasionally? FRED.

If you hope to marry your "heiress," it seems to me that it would be very risky for you to borrow from her. A penny has often turned the current of friendship, and a borrowing friend soon takes on the aspect of an enemy. Don't borrow if you're in earnest with this girl.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

We were such devoted friends for a long time, and all of a sudden he stopped coming. When we meet anywhere, he acts as if he doesn't know me any more, and passes me on the street with only the slightest nod.

I have pondered over it, but can't think of a single thing I did or might have said to offend him. I don't drink, smoke or pet. Do you suppose that is the reason he's acting so distant? I don't care for any of these things. PEG.

Too great an interest in a young man is almost as fatal as being sarcastic or domineering. It's hard to earn enough money to maintain a home and wife nowadays, and a good many young men feel that it isn't fair to waste a girl's time as long as they will be unable to marry for years to come.

Judging from letters I receive from young men, a great many of them do not care for the drinking and petting kind, and they ask what has happened to all "the decent girls."

Plans 'Mother's Shower'

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

In your opinion, would it be proper to give a "Mother's Shower" [illegible] than gifts for the baby? M. J.

I think this is an inspired idea for a shower. [illegible] that you make a list, to be talked over by the prospective guests and a particular [illegible] guest, so that there will not be too many duplications of obvious gifts. Bedroom slippers, [illegible] item and a [illegible] bedside table, and a decorative box filled with cleansing tissues. Soup Is Among Most Versatile of Foods

By MARTHA LEE

"Of soup and love, the first is best," if you believe the old proverb—but sometimes the best part of the soup is what goes with it. Brew your own soup like grandma used to do, if you like, or whisk it up in the modern manner by adding a little water to the contents of a can or jar and heating.

The secret of many a soup is its companion, its unusual twist, or the way it's served. The French pop crunchy croutons atop their soup, serve it in crocks with covers; some like popped corn on cream soups; bouillons are better served with toasted cheese wafers. And who could imagine clam chowder without benefit of ship biscuit, or oyster stew without the littlest crackers?

All sort of things go with (and into) soup; muffins and biscuits help make it a meal, dumplings on top make it more fun and more filling, unusual toppings make it festive.

BRAN SOUP DUMPLINGS

1½ cups flour
1 tsp. salt
1 tbsp. baking powder
1 egg
1 tbsp. melted shortening
½ cup all-bran
¾ cup milk

Sift flour, salt and baking powder together. Beat egg until light, add melted and cooled shortening, all-bran and milk. Add liquid mixture to sifted dry ingredients and stir only until flour disappears. Drop batter by teaspoonfuls on top of hot soup in kettle, cover tightly and let simmer 20 minutes without removing cover. Serve hot. Makes eight to 12 dumplings.

CHEESE CROUTONS

White bread
Cooking oil
Soft American cheese

Cut bread into ¼ inch slices Put together with soft American cheese. Remove crusts; cut into ½-inch strips or cubes; place on baking sheet which has been oiled. Toast in moderate oven or under slow broiler until bread is a light golden color and thoroughly dried out. Drop onto pea, or onion soup or onion soup or consomme.

DRIED BEEF SANDWICHES

(Serve with mild soups)

3 oz. jar dried beef, cut in pieces
2 tsp. butter
½ lb. cream cheese
2 tsp. drained horseradish
3 tbsp. catsup
Dash of pepper

Slowly saute dried beef in butter until crisp and browned. Cool. Blend remaining ingredients. Add frizzled beef. Makes about 1¾ cups filling. Spread on white, rye or whole wheat bread.

BANANA TUNA FISH SALAD

(Serve as Main Course After Consomme)

1 cup sliced or diced ripe bananas (1 to 2 bananas)
½ cup diced pineapple
1½ cups flaked tuna fish
½ cup diced celery
2 tbsp. sliced stuffed olives
1½ tsp. salt
1 tbsp .prepared mustard
1 tbsp. mayonnaise

Use ripe bananas (yellow peel flecked with brown). Combine bananas and pineapple. Add tuna fish, celery, olives and salt. Mix together mustard and mayonnaise and add to salad ingredients. Mix lightly. Serve with crisp lettuce or other salad greens. Garnish with additional mayonnaise and lemon slices, if desired. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Smart Set Functions

By BETTY ALDEN

SMILING AMY SUTER, daughter of Mr. Philip H. Suter of Milton, is one of the attractive new debutante members of the Junior League and Vincent Club. Amy, a tiny brunette, wears a slate gray wool dress with a gray, red and black striped bodice. She was presented to society at a luncheon given by her aunt, Mrs. Clarence J. Gamble of Milton.

CIGARETTES were in the doghouse at Mary Favorite's debutante luncheon at the Ritz-Carlton today . . . but paradoxically enough that doesn't say they weren't popular . . .

The favors which Mary provides for each of her guests are little white porcelain ash trays made to look like doghouses with her name across the front . . . When a lighted cigarette rests in one of these novel ash trays the smoke curls up through the little chimney . . .

The party was given by Mary's mother, Mrs. Calvin Favorite of Brookline, who was assisted in receiving by her sister, Mrs. Albert Brewer Baker of Pelham Manor, N. Y., and Mr Favorite's sister-in-law, Mrs. George U. Favorite of Philadelphia . . .

The vivacious blonde debutante wore a frock of aquamarine crepe with a pompadour cap trimmed with aqua ostrich feathers . . . Her corsage was of orchids . . . Mrs. Favorite's draped black dress was enhanced by a blue hat and a corsage of pale lavendar orchids . . .

Colored marsh grasses from the Florida Everglades, tied with splashy apple green satin bows, formed the artistic centerpieces on the luncheon tables . . . The grasses are a symbol of good luck and good health, appropriate wishes for any young woman on her debut day . . . Each place was marked by a corsage of pink, lavendar and yellow flowers . . .

Debutante table hostesses were Ann Folsom, Nancy Bernard, Virginia Grant, Lee Stowell Cullen, Elise Burkhart and Barsha Powers . . .

May Kenney Bottomley Honored

FOLLOWING dessert and coffee at Mary's party it's only a hop, skip and a jump up the avenue to the Algonquin Club where May Kenney Bottomley is being presented at a tea dance given by her mother, Mrs. John Taylor Bottomley . . . The debutante, a new member of the Junior League and Vincent Club, is carrying a colorful bouquet of American beauty roses and gardenias with her Lanvin gown of white faille trimmed with ruching . . . Mrs. Bottomley's gown is a Molyneux model of Perruche green with self tone embroidery edged with gold . . .

May's sister, Ellen, heads the pourers . . . In the group is Emily Garritt, who is returning from Smith College today and will make her bow to society at a tea dance at the Somerset Hotel tomorrow afternoon . . . Also pouring are Lee Burnett, Alice Plummer, Marjorie Ober, Grace Cheney, Miriam Davis, Mouette Lepoutre, Ann Lord and Sally Lawrence . . .

This evening Mrs. Bottomley is giving a dinner party at her Beacon street home in honor of the pourers and their escorts . . .

THE JUNIOR LEAGUE of Boston admitted nearly 100 new members at the annual tea held yesterday at League headquarters, 2610 Marlboro gh Street . . . The new enrollment includes about 85 of the season's debutantes, a number of post debs, young married and graduate nurses who offered their affiliations to the League . . .

Among the many debutantes admitted with them are Ellen Ann Potter who wore a sporty gaberdine raincoat over her pearl gray frock at the opening tea . . . Also Amy Suter, Anne Cunningham, Dorothy Pierce, who wore a tweed trimmed green suit and a beaver hat, Christina Baker, Posy Kent, Isabel Foster, Alice Reed, Frances Beer, Cynthia Beer, whose black dress was decorated with tiny embroidered flowers, Deborah Law, Betsy Ayer, Sylvia Choate, Beatrice Barbes, Mary Butler, Eleanor Ayer, Anne Lyman, Mary Whitter, Nancy Wardell, Harriet Gow, Frances Holmes, Mary Sayer, Sylvia Lyon, Maynard, Cynthia Theodore Burnett, Sally Lawrence, Lois Fillyer, Helen Farnsworth, Ann Curtis and Georgie Parmele . . .

One of the first parties which presumably will take place in the round Christmas box, the Junior Players production as settlement houses throughout the city . . . Those who wish to test their acting ability met at the League for the morning . . . The play chosen . . . Players wore a bittersweet wool dress and a novel silver fox bonnet on her blonde hair.

THE SPY who had escaped was the chief of Brinda's captors. He was the one who had insisted throughout that the sensible thing to do was to kill her immediately. He was also the one who had locked her in the abandoned kitchen. When the firing started, he emptied his automatic, then leaped out a window, and dashed toward Brinda's prison.

He had a start on the Squire, and was safely inside before that doughty 'chutist hunter hove into view.

Locking the door behind him, the spy shoved a fresh clip into his automatic and looked about for Brinda. At the moment, he had no more sinister thought than to use her as a hostage or perhaps as a shield if the occasion arose.

It took a moment for his eyes to become accustomed to the dark. Then he realized that she was no longer in the room.

Furious and bewildered, he prowled about until he came to the disused dumbwaiter shaft. He guessed at once that it concealed his quarry.

But the discovery of the shaft also gave him hope. This might be the way of escape from the certain death that faced him if captured. It was a situation that called for strategy.

"Hello, there," he said, in passable English, keeping his voice low. "Are you all right?"

"Who is it?" came Brinda's voice.

"A friend. You can come out now. But be quiet. They are all around us."

Brinda, too, lowered her voice.

"In one moment, I am writing something now." She was scribbling with her eyebrow pencil.

"Writing, you say?"

"Yes. Numbers I want to remember. They were sending them over the wireless."

He swallowed a German epithet, then reassured her in good English with "Right o! But hurry!"

In a moment, Brinda spoke again. "Here I come. Now, tell me all about—"

As she emerged, the spy clapped a hand over her mouth.

"So, my pretty one, you were listening! You know all our little secrets, do you? Too bad, you'll never tell them. First, you will give me what you have written, and then—"

He twisted Brinda's hand that grasped the scrap of powder-paper on which, for better remembrance, she had scrawled the directions for the meeting with the U-boat.

Fighting desperately, she resisted his clutch, long enough to utter a single, half-stifled cry

SPY STRATEGY

It was answered by a thunderous knock on the door.

"Open up!" boomed the voice of Squire May.

The spy smiled thinly. Letting Brinda go, he strode to the door, and flung it open. Dawn was at hand.

The muzzle of the Squire's shotgun poked inside.

"Come out with your hands in the air!" the Squire ordered. "I have you covered."

The spy edged along the wall.

"Not so fast!" he cautioned. "There's a girl here with me. I am armed. If you make one false move, she dies first." He trained his pistol on Brinda.

Squire May froze.

"You confounded coward!" he said. "It won't do you any good to hurt the girl. Come out and die like a man."

"Thank you, no." From the cover of the wall, the Nazi made a sudden lunge for the shotgun barrel. Squire May quickly stepped back, and pulled both triggers. The hammers fell harmlessly. The Squire swore.

"You English are brave, but you forget important things—like reloading," said the spy, leveling his automatic. "Now, drop your gun and stand aside."

Reluctantly, the Squire obeyed. The Nazi peered cautiously out, satisfied himself the coast was clear.

"I don't care about you, old fellow," he said as he paused in the doorway, "but the girl knows too much." He took careful aim at Brinda.

She knew the sense of imminent death. Then, from nowhere, there was a short, sharp explosion.

The spy's pointed weapon jerked upward, as if pulled by strings. A bullet slugged its way harmlessly into the ceiling. The bulky enemy agent collapsed grotesquely, his legs folding under him before he pitched forward and lay still.

Dick's big, angular frame appeared out of the lightening dawn.

"Hello, there," he called cheerily. He bent over the dead man for an instant. "Too bad. I'd rather have taken him alive. Couldn't chance it, though, under the circumstances. A mean customer!"

Brinda scarcely knew what Dick Malden said, she was so happy to see him alive.

"Dick!" she cried. "Oh, Dick!"

Then, somehow, she was in his arms.

The Squire coughed. "Someone coming," he warned.

It was the constable. He approached cautiously.

"Oh!" he said, on viewing the doorway, "you got another!"

"Where's your prisoner?" asked Dick sharply.

"I was 'oping you'd seen 'im," said the constable. "'E got away."

With his good hand, Sir John angrily crumpled the report he had just finished reading. Against Dr. MacDonald's advice, he had returned to London on hearing of Brinda's adventure. A loose sling supported his injured arm, and his face was white with fatigue. But he sat bolt upright at the desk in his study, spurning even the support of the chair-arm.

He addressed his orderly, Hunt, hovering nearby. "Tell my niece I wish to see her—at once."

"Yes, sir."

During the brief wait, the intelligence chief painfully extracted a legal-looking document from a drawer, took up a pen, and began to write. He had just laid the pen down when Brinda arrived.

A PASSPORT

"Sandy! What on earth are you doing here? Why aren't you in bed?"

Sir John applied a blotter to what he had just written.

"For an excellent reason, my child. I enjoy depriving MacDonald of the chance to dope me with his confonded potions. Then, I had something important to attend to—something I'm afraid you may not like." He handed her the document.

Brinda looked at it uncomprehendingly for a moment or two; then she exclaimed, "Why, it's a passport!"

"Exactly," said Sir John. "Also, your visas—one for Portugal, one for the United States."

"But," Brinda strove to keep the tremor out of her voice—"I don't understand. Honestly, Sandy. Why?"

Sir John's lean jaws tightened.

"Sit down. Of course, you don't understand. I'll explain."

In short, curt sentences, he told her. It was not his intention to reproach her. But she seemed to have a knack of getting into highly dangerous and delicate situations. First, her fatal mistake of giving a lift to the parachute spy. Then, Kenley's murder. Finally, the exciting series of events that had begun on the Mountwyn terrace and ended so dramatically at the lonely Nazi espionage headquarters on the moor.

"But you can't be angry at me for that, Sandy!" interrupted Brinda. "After all, we caught the spies."

Colonel Sanderson smiled wearily.

"Killing a spy isn't catching one, Brinda. Besides, that isn't the point. What troubles me is that they might very well have killed you. And, furthermore, the next time, they probably will."

"I see," said Brinda dully. "I thought, perhaps, that I'd helped you this time — that you'd see I could be useful. But it seems I'm just not the Mata Hari type."

It was an unfortunate remark. Sir John's fist clenched.

"Confound it, girl!" he exclaimed. "Don't talk like a fool! And don't speak that name again." His voice rose. "You hear?"

Brinda stared at him. A slow flush mounted to her cheeks. Never before, in the years since she became his ward, had Sir John spoken to her in such a tone.

She could think of nothing to say, nothing to do. There was a deep sense of hurt in her that lingered even after he had quickly recovered himself, crisply apologized. Vaguely, as in a dream, she listened as he told her what he wished her to do. She was to take such-and-such a ship for Lisbon. There, Aunt Vicky would join her and see her aboard an American ship for New York. By traveling on an American ship, she would be safe from submarines. And, in the States, she should be safe from Nazis, their sinister errand boys, and . . . Ajax.

BRINDA OBEYS

It was in Brinda's mind to protest that she could not possibly leave England while Britain was at war. But the memory of Sir John's unexpected and unprecedented outburst sealed her lips.

Why his sudden rage at the name of Mata Hari, the famous woman spy? His irate reaction seemed fantastic and irrational. She had the sense of treading on the edge of some fateful mystery, of being threatened by forces that she could not understand.

She barely heard her guardian as he finished: "Sorry that all this is necessary . . . But you'll be better off . . . Too dangerous . . . As I told you repeatedly, I can't have you getting mixed up in espionage . . ."

She was thinking desperately how she could avoid leaving England—and Dick.

At the door, she paused. She wanted to ask Sir John why he had told her she was in danger at the Mountwyns'.

And then Brinda recalled the conversation she had overheard in the house on the moor—the plan by which the stolen list of British agents was to be smuggled to Germany. But hurt pride and bewilderment choked back the words.

"I think you're making a big mistake, Sandy," she managed to say. "I could help. I am sure—"

"You've helped quite enough," responded Sir John dryly.

As the door closed, he again scanned the report that had aroused his anger. Dated the previous day, it gave the location of the spy headquarters on the moor. Through the stupidity of a clerk, it had failed to reach him the previous night. And now it was too late. The secret was out; the plotters dead. Again, he had missed a clue that almost surely would have led him to Ajax—all because of Brinda's curiosity and Dick Malden's impetuous, if effective, action.

He lifted the phone that communicated with the Intelligence Offices.

"Sanderson speaking. Find out when a good neutral boat is leaving for Lisbon. Engage a passage on it for my ward, Miss Brinda Duncan. One way."

With a sigh, he turned back to the mass of papers on his desk.

At the same moment Brinda was also talking over the housekeeping phone.

"Dick," she said, "I must see you. It's terribly important!"

"Right-o!" came Dick's voice reassuringly over the wire. "In a jiffy . . . And how about a bite and a cocktail?"

"That would be lovely."

It was so arranged.

In her room, Brinda dressed swiftly, completing her costume with a curiously carved jade necklace—a gift from Sir John when she had graduated from Miss Cartwright's . . . But its color clashed with her costume, and, removing it, she turned to a jewel cabinet that was among her few authentic personal possessions.

The cabinet was connected with a forgotten presence — a misty, vague figure from her earliest childhood . . . The mother of whom she knew so little . . . The mother of whom her father, before his death, had spoken so seldom, and whom Sir John, for some reason, never mentioned.

A VOICE FROM GRAVE

The cabinet, of intricately carved teak, was lined with some other Oriental wood, golden and scented with strange, exotic perfume. This fragrance emanated especially from a drawer in the bottom, in which Brinda kept her special treasures.

It was a secret drawer, and opened by pressing one of the scrolls in the teakwood. She opened it now, and drew forth a necklace of several rows of thin, iridescent pearls.

She tested the pearls against the smoky pallor of her throat, and was satisfied. At the same time, she had a peculiar sense of there being a third person in the room—someone trying to speak to her across a vast, mysterious gulf. An icy chill ran through her; yet she was not frightened. For it was not a new experience. More than once before on opening the secret drawer she had felt the same eerie sensation.

Once, at an official dinner, she had been seated next to a famous man — an Englishman who had made a profound study of East Indian mysticism. She had told him, half in fun, of the jewel cabinet, and its curious effect on her. But he had not laughed.

Instead, he had asked: "Tell me, had your mother lived long in the East?"

And to Brinda's affirmative reply, he had said, gravely, "I am not surprised. The dead in the East have their own way of speaking to those they love."

Brinda could hear his voice now, as she linked the clasp of the necklace, and prepared to shut the secret drawer again. It seemed to her, too, she could hear another voice, thin and silvery, trying to tell her something. She felt as though someone were warning her of grave, impending danger . . .

OPPORTUNITY TO Save ON PREMIUM QUALITY USED CARS!

1940 PACKARD 110
4-Dr., 6-Cyl. Tour. Sedans

It would take an expert to tell these cars from new 1941 Packards. The depreciation and dealer's profit have been paid for by the previous owner. The present price does not represent the cost of the materials of which these cars were built. They are better than any new car at the same price and won't depreciate half as much. There are thousands of owners in New England that paid over $1200 for cars like these and you can not tempt them to part with their cars at $1,000 such price as offered here. I know. I have tried..... $795

Down payments as low as $100. Terms as low as $6 per week.

HOYAS DRILL AT TUFTS; FOOTING FIRM AT FENWAY

By BILL GRIMES

Georgetown's doughty band of football warriors, 36 strong and unefeated since mid-season in '37, was greeted by one of Boston's health-building rains this morning when it arrived at Back Bay station from Washington.

The unbeaten Hoyas face unbeaten Boston College at Fenway Park tomorrow a gathering of 40,000.

Rain upset the Hoyas' plans but mildly, because after the squad attended mass at St. Clement's Church on Boylston st., Jack Haggerty, Dorchester boy, who has coached the team through two successive unbeaten seasons, called Tufts College and was given permission to use their spacious indoor gym for afternoon practice. The Hoyas are quartered at Hotel Sheraton.

Originally the Hoyas were scheduled to work out at Fenway Park. The the Red Sox plant, however, the gridiron was covered with a huge tarpaulin, has been all week long in fact, and Red Sox officials promised a dry field for the titanic clash which will see the two unbeaten teams clash before a sell-out crowd in the nation's leading game.

B. C. HANDICAPPED

All teams were refused permission to drill at Fenway while rain fell, so that firm footing would be assured the teams when they clash on the morrow.

Jules Koshlap, Hoya ambidexterous passer

The week's rains, if anything, have helped the crack Georgetown team, for they have a spacious gym in the nation's capital, whereas Boston College, without a gym, has been forced to work in cramped quarters and has been unable to prepare an adequate defense for the Hoyas famous spread formation.

After the Eaglets and the Crusaders freshmen had finished their annual gridiron encounter last Monday at the Heights, the B. C. varsity held a practise session for about an hour under the lights. Previously they'd spent the morning indoors studying diagrams of Georgetown's offense on the blackboard.

The weatherman went to work on the Eagles Tuesday and drove them indoors. On Wednesday, they defied the elements and practised for an hour in the rain. But it's doubtful, if they derived any real benefits from that session which was devoted for the most part to passing and kicking.

WALKING THROUGH PLAYS

About 3:30 yesterday afternoon, the Eagles piled into a couple of buses and went to the Latin School gym for another indoor session.

The inclement weather has been a blow to B. C. From Monday until today, they've been able to get in only a couple of hours of practise at Alumni Field. The floor space is so limited in the gym where they worked out on Monday and Tuesday that the Eagles could only walk through plays.

And, you can't master a defense for Georgetown's spread by walking.

Under Frank Leahy, Boston College takes every opponent in stride. That is to say, the Eagles do not see the offense of the enemy until the Monday prior to the game. So, until the blackboard session Armistice Day morning, B. C. hadn't

We'll Beat B. C., Says Hagerty

Coach Jack Hagerty of Georgetown, whose mates Boston College tomorrow on one of the country's biggest gridirons, today predicted a Hoya win.

"I think we'll beat them," he said, "and if Georgetown gets off on the right foot, it may not even be close."

However, he realized the Hoyas were facing one of the nation's best teams, one that is as big and fast as Georgetown.

"But," he added, "I don't believe we fully realize how good Georgetown is. The boys themselves don't know. I don't know, because they haven't been extended.

"Week after week," he said, "we pointed out the dangers of being upset, using every coaching trick in the book to keep the boys on edge, but it didn't work. They took every game in stride, always thinking of one—Boston College."

AUSTEN LAKE

Zero Hour at Fenway: B. C. vs. Georgetown

IT'S ONE OF NATURE'S INEXORABLE laws that, mighty or midget, a little rain must splash into each life. Thus Michigan's Tommy Harmon had his Minnesota, Penn its Harvard, Hitler his Churchill, Joe Louis his Max Schmeling, Myrna Loy her freckles, Napoleon brandy its headache, Art Ross his Connie Smythe and Miami's fun center its annual winter freeze.

AUSTEN LAKE

So as tomorrow's low, descending sun gilds the turrets at Fenway Park (if it doesn't hail, sleet or pour) it is B. C.'s or Georgetown's turn to sip the hemlock (if it doesn't end in a tie). It's 6-5 and take your choice among the Scollay Square odds-layers. It's a "toss up" in the opinion of the rival coaching staffs. And the gentry of the Eastern press are saying non-committal nothings like a housewife pinching melons in a market.

Let's make this clear! I don't know what will happen tomorrow between the hours of 2 and 4 and nobody else does, including the rival coaches, the press and the public. None could be that clairvoyant where two teams measure so alike at all points that they suggest the old physics theorem of the Irresistible Force meeting the Immovable Object—which physicists say would result in disintegration for both parties. You don't suppose, do you, that at the first collision both B. C. and Georgetown will dissolve into molecules of gaseous vapor and leave the 35,000 witnesses gaping at an empty field.

Ed McKeever, who has spied on Georgetown for B. C., says that the team hasn't been tested to the limit of its potential strength. Jack Hagerty says the same about B. C.! I agree with both opinions, but with reservation! Because Tulane, which B. C. beat in its own bailiwick amid torrid New Orleans weather, was an ordeal for any major college team. Georgetown hasn't met anything like that!

I'll Take B. C.'s Line

YET GEORGETOWN MANGLED A good Syracuse team, 28-6, and Syracuse, despite its lickings by Northwestern (40-0) and Cornell (33-6), is nobody's stoop-shouldered pushover. For Syracuse in appearance and experience looked every inch the team that held Georgetown in 1939 to a 13-13 score, G. U.'s nearest approach to defeat in two years. I say that because I saw the Orange trounce Columbia's previously unbeaten team last month and it gave Lou Little's chef d'oeuvre more than it could handle. So Georgetown, too, showed that it can roll over any average big college team in the East

I'll take B. C.'s front line, G. U. sight unseen, as the equal of the Northwestern line which walloped Syracuse in the season's opener. I'll take it against Notre Dame's "A" frontier which I saw beat Navy last week. And against the Midshipmen, too. For I firmly believe that Wojcinicz, Manzo, Zabilski, Gladchuck, Kerr, Yauckoes and Goodreault rank with Fordham's famed "seven blocks of granite" from several years ago and, under a more metropolitan setting, would merit several All-Americas. They may anyway, under the eye of Grantland Rice, Walter Camp's successor in this National picking business. They don't come more aggressive, agile and hefty, even though G. U. is rated six to eight pounds heavier per man. Weight, beyond the 200-pound ceiling, is rarely an asset.

Toczylowski Is No. 1

NEITHER DO I BELIEVE THAT Georgetown's Lou Gheeas, Julius Koshlap, Jim Castiglia and Tom McFadden (McKeever rates them as "tops") are a better balanced, all service backfield than Henry Toczylowski, Frank Maznicki, Charlie O'Rourke and Mike Holovak. For, as a combination blocker and play-picker, Toczylowski has only one equal that I have seen this season—Michigan's Evashevski, the personal trailblazer and bodyguard for Tom Harmon. (McKeever says McFadden is "the finest body checker outside of Torz I have seen." High praise that!)

I've seen Lou Gheeas run the ball for Georgetown (on his tying dash of 73 yards against Syracuse last year). And a sweet, compact bundle of bone and muscle he is! The boy is danger from any spot on the field, no doubt, and perhaps a bit better wagtail runner than Maznicki. But Frank, on the other hand is one of the best cut-back runners I have seen since the old day of Cavanaugh and Haughton.

That leaves us Holovak versus Castiglia, of whom McKeever said: "I've never seen a man hit a line harder than he did Temple." G. U. may be "one up" there! We'll have to see tomorrow.

Now this, I confess, is like shoveling fog. Because the quality no one can foresee is the nervous energy and state of mind inside the boys' network and noggins. Remember what a low-rated Harvard team, did to the supposed Penn colossus last week? Remember, too, that the little gods of the game discount a coach's best laid plans—a pass snatched by a finger nail, a miscued tackle, a bad-bouncing punt. "breaks" tomorrow will play a vital part and the team that forces them will win. My guess is that B. C., with its set of opportunists, will create what Columbia's Lou Little calls, "some interesting situations." Contrary to the pessimism of the Gallup Poll of writers outside New England I believe they will win.

JACK CONWAY

THE BOSTON COLLEGE GEORGETOWN GAME LOOKS TO JACK CONWAY

By JACK CONWAY

YOU will see the most thrilling football game played in New England this season when Boston College battles Georgetown at Fenway Park.

Both elevens are undefeated and untied this season, and each is anxious to secure national standing.

If Boston College wins, and then goes on to conquer Auburn and Holy Cross it will probably be selected to oppose Tennessee in the Sugar Bowl game at New Orleans on New Year's Day. Georgetown will also probably get a Bowl bid if it runs its total of straight victories to 24 by bringing down the Eagles.

Georgetown has a 210-pound line. The players are big and powerful and also exceptionally fast.

Jack Hagerty, Georgetown coach and a former Dorchester boy, has one of the most brilliant backs in the country in Johnny Dolan. You may look to see Dolan making some spectacular runs against Boston College.

Frank Leahy has been the saddest person at the Heights as part of his psychology campaign to make the Boston College players extend themselves to the limit of their capabilities against Georgetown. Leahy is a member of the Knute Rockne school of football which believes that the best way to get the most out of young football players is to present you fear disaster. The players then try to bring a smile to the face of their coach by coming through with a smashing victory.

In Charley O'Rourke, Boston College has one of the greatest forward passers in college football. He rates as a passer with Dave Allerdice of Princeton. Later O'Rourke may develop to become the equal of Sammy Baugh of the Redskins.

O'Rourke is at his best in key games when much is at stake. This is why I am picking Boston College, which is on the short end of the betting, to win.

O'Rourke will have plenty of help from the other Boston College backfield stars and the full support of a swell line.

READ WHAT SOME OF THE OLD GRADS SAY

By Tom Thorp

(Famous college football official, former coach and ex-track official)

Georgetown has a big powerful team, and one that also has speed. Johnny Dolan is one of the fastest backs in the country. Jack Hagerty is a grand coach.

Boston College has a dazzling offense and a strong defense, and under Frank Leahy tremendous team spirit.

I think the game is a toss-up.

By Bill Grimes

Head Coach Jack "Dorchester" Hagerty of Georgetown has a combination of football, track and field event stars primed to toss in against Frank Leahy's high flying Eagles.

And the combined squads are "tops" in both sports.

The Hoyas haven't lost a decision on the gridiron in 2 games. They are big and powerful, fast and plenty deep.

Art Ross

(Coach of Boston Bruins)

I have seen Georgetown and Boston College play, and I consider them two of the finest football teams in the country.

I like Boston College to win over Georgetown because the Eagles haven't had to show their real power since beating Tulane. Charley O'Rourke will do the job.

85,000 TO SEE HARMON DUEL NORTHWESTERN

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 15 (AP)—Michigan football fans still can't believe Tommy Harmon and his teammates were knocked from the ranks of the unbeaten. Some 85,000 of them will swarm the huge Michigan Stadium tomorrow to take another look at the Wolverines, this time against Northwestern.

The 7 to 6 defeat by Minnesota apparently was the shot in the arm needed to boost ticket sales for the Northwestern game. When the dejected Wolverines returned home, ticket offices immediately noted an upturn in business from 2500 tickets daily to nearly 6000.

The front office announced today that, with fewer than 15,000 tickets remaining, Michigan appeared to be headed for its first sellout since the bottom dropped from the stock market. The attendance record of 71,000 for the Northwestern series was established in 1938.

FAREWELL TO HARMON

If the weather is favorable, the nation's largest crowd of the season may see the once-beaten rivals collide.

With Michigan apparently out of the running for the Western Conference championship, the game from a partisan standpoint will be primarily a farewell party for Harmon and his hard-blocking buddy, Forest Evashevski, who [illegible] with seven other Wolverines [illegible] playing their final home [illegible]

[illegible] instead of a duel with [illegible] Franck, Harmon will be challenged by three halfbacks who run in relays from the tailback position. The Michigan powerhouse, who in the last three games has rested only five minutes, may find his match in Bill Deconcini, the former Interscholastic [illegible] center, Oliver (Red Hanneman and Paul Soper.

SAME RECORDS

Northwestern, like Michigan, will enter the game with five victories and only a one-point setback by Minnesota to blot its record.

The Wildcats have scored 137 points in six games to Michigan's 156 in the race for conference offensive leadership.

Of all its sectional rivals, Northwestern alone stands within range of Michigan in their series. Since the first game in 1892 Michigan has won seven and lost six. Two years ago in the last meeting they played a 0-0 scoreless tie.

Pros Rate Reagan Harmon's Superior

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 15—Turk Edwards, tackle and scout of the Washington Redskins, rates Francis Reagan, brilliant Penn triple threat halfback, as a much better prospect for pro football than the celebrated Tommy Harmon. Edwards saw the pair in their duel at Ann Arbor. He claims Harmon is an ordinary passer, while Reagan runs, passes and kicks equally well. Several other professional coaches are said to share this viewpoint.

TAYLOR CUTS DEW'S LEAD

The battle for riding supremacy in the nation got closer once again as Wally Taylor started to cut into the lead of Earl Dew, the standings now being: Dew, 239; Taylor, 234.

Since last Saturday Dew has booted home but three winners, two of them yesterday, while Wally came through with five to move within five of the leadership.

With racing closing hereabouts very shortly, it is believed that Taylor will go to Bay Meadows to finish out the rest of the riding for the 1940 crown.

Mr. Boston

By JACK CONWAY

ED BARROW, WISE in the affairs of baseball, knows that a manager cannot always win a pennant with his club, and has given Joe McCarthy a new three year contract at an annual salary of $30,000 . . . McCarthy has been an important factor in the great baseball and financial success of the Yankees.

JOE McCARTHY

In addition to knowing baseball, McCarthy is able to get along with people which is so important if a club is to win a pennant . . . Ball players get jittery and temperamental, especially when they are in a slump, and it requires patience and diplomacy to get them back into their winning habits . . . Last season when the Yankees got off to a poor start, McCarthy did not lose his mental poise . . . He kept trying and prevented his players from giving in to their discouragement . . . The Yankees finally came out of their slump and almost won the pennant in a driving finish.

Barrow is blessed with a world of baseball knowledge, and he has appreciated the obstacles McCarthy has been obliged to meet and overcome.

I came to know Barrow well in the days when he managed the Red Sox . . . Barrow had been manager of the International League . . . This league was obliged to suspend during the World War, and Barrow was named manager of the Red Sox when Jack Barry of Worcester, Holy Cross baseball coach, enlisted in the Navy. Barrow remained at this post when Barry rejoined the club following the war . . . Barry stepped into the Red Sox lineup, at his old position at second base.

IT WAS NOT a new experience for Barrow when the Yankees won pennants for him . . . Ed managed the Red Sox when they won an American League pennant, and then defeated the Cubs in a World Series . . . In one of the World Series games, Babe Ruth played left field, first base and also did some pitching.

Once Ruth started hitting home runs, he lost his interest in pitching . . . Babe had been a top flight flinger, but he wanted to get into the game each day, and so preferred an assignment in the outfield.

Ruth gave Barrow as an excuse for not pitching the claim he had a sore arm . . . Babe was sent to left field in a practice game at Tampa, Fla. . . . With a man on second base, a single was hit to left field . . . Ruth rushed in, seized the ball and made a perfect throw to the plate . . . I was sitting on the Red Sox bench with Barrow at the time.

"That throw proves there isn't anything the matter with Babe's arm," said Barrow . . . "In his eagerness to get the runner at the plate, Ruth forgot he told me he had a sore arm . . . Babe wants to play the outfield so that he can be in there hitting every day . . . As long as he keeps getting home runs, it is all right with me."

WHEN HARRY FRAZEE became hard pressed for cash, he sold Ruth to the Yankees for $125,000 . . . This deal was a big disappointment to Barrow . . . The following Spring at the Red Sox training quarters at Hot Springs, Ark., Barrow told me that he was not consulted about the Ruth sale.

"The first I knew that Ruth was to be sold to the Yanks for $125,000 was when Frazee told me he had closed the deal," said Barrow.

Barrow later became business manager of the Yankees . . . He realized what a natural ball player Ruth was, and did much to promote him as America's leading baseball star . . . Ruth's home run hitting and color did the rest.

Barrow built up the Yankees' farm system that has produced so many stars . . . He has also been willing to assist the club's manager with his advice, but he has never interfered in the direction of the club on the field.

"Barrow has always permitted me to call my plays on the field, and has always given me the right to handle the players in my own way," Joe McCarthy told me the night of one of his victory dinners in Boston.

PACINO SURE TO QUALIFY FOR ALL-AMERICA FINALS

Larry Pacino of Roxbury, who last year was ranked among the top middleweights in New England amateur boxing circles, will make his first indoor appearance of the season next Monday, when he competes in the second All-America elimination tournament conducted by the Irish-American A. A. at the Arena.

"AND CLEAN THOSE EARS." Larry Pacino may be a big shot in the ring, but he's just one of five brothers in the Pacino menage at Roxbury. His mother watches his every move closely, just as Larry will watch the moves of his opponents in the All-America bouts at the Arena.

Pacino is one of the hardest punchers among the amateurs and to date, looks as if he will wade through the field Monday. At this writing, only Harrison Rogers of Wellesley and Raymond Deborge of Ware, are entered in the class and Mike should be able to take care of them nicely.

Entry number heavy mail was tossed at Tom Kanaly today, and opposition of stiffer caliber is promised Larry before he enters the ring.

TITALIST LAST YEAR

Larry [illegible] only headliner entered. [illegible] show, however, [illegible] was Joe Lynch from Gardner, who last [illegible] the New England flyweight [illegible].

Joe does not pack up a class this year but has been well to date. Last week he defeated Bill Hill at Stadium and both boys will be back [illegible] for that prized [illegible].

Others entered in Monday's show are: John Connellan, Lowell, 118; Jack Clancey, Manchester, N. H., 126; Howard Freedman, Lawrence, 135; Fred Howard, Haverhill, and Mike Cuscio, Boston, 147; Leo Bronzetti, Framingham, 175, and Albin Rumas, Dorchester, heavyweight.

There are all open class performers. There will be four classes for novices, 118, 135, 160 and heavyweight, and plenty of action is promised in these classes.

Last week the 147-pound novice final at [illegible] the show when Red Lucas of Back Bay stopped Dick Fitzgibbon, CCC boxer from Beckett.

GRAND FINALS DEC. 23

No post entries will be accepted at weighing-in time on Monday.

The All-American tournament is a real championship meeting and all rules for conducting championships must be enforced.

Two more elimination shows will be held after Monday—Nov. 25 and Dec. 2.

The winners in all classes both open and novice of the four tryouts will battle in the grand finals of the New England All-America Championships at Boston Garden on Dec. 9.

The [illegible] crowned in the [illegible] classes at the Dec. 9 [illegible] will be selected to represent Boston in the [illegible] New York, Albany, Buffalo and Baltimore in the Eastern A. A. U. Finals at Boston Garden Dec. 23.

Gaziano Returns To Purple Squad

WORCESTER, Nov. 15 (AP)—Through ankle deep mud and driving rain Coach Joe Sheketski drove his Holy Cross football players through their first outdoor practice [illegible] week in preparation for tomorrow's tussle here with Temple.

The practice saw the return of Frank Gaziano, senior tackle, for the first time since he fractured a collarbone in the Brown game and also saw other semi-cripples go through [illegible] Bill, including Capt. Jack Kelly, tackle, Ends Walt Barnes and Eddie Murphy, Guard Joe Zilio and Halfback Kevin Moore.

Green Lacks Practice for Cornell Tilt

HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 15 (AP)—With rain turning their practice field into a sea of mud for the third consecutive day, the Dartmouth Indians remained outdoors for only an hour to tighten their defenses for tomorrow's clash with unbeaten Cornell.

While outdoors, Coach Earl Blaik sent his first-stringers through a dummy scrimmage against a combination freshman-third varsity combination, which used Cornell's running and passing plays.

When the squad moved into the field house, the Indians reviewed their individual assignments and checked on fundamentals.

Fritzie Zivic Meets Davis

NEW YORK, Nov. 15 (INS)—Welterweight Champion Fritzie Zivic of Pittsburgh, is a 6 to 5 favorite to whip Al Davis, New York, in a 15-round non-title fight in Madison Square Garden tonight.

This is Zivic's first since he won the title from Henry Armstrong in the same ring last October, is expected by experts to be a brawl.

The experts feel that Zivic, who has engaged in over 130 fights in his lengthy career, will outsmart and outpoint his less experienced foe.

Hutson to Quit Grid This Year

GREEN BAY, Wis., Nov. 15—Reports are current here that Don Hutson, greatest pass catcher in football history, will quit the game at the conclusion of the current season. The famous Alabama end has taken a real battering this fall and is known to be anxious to retire before suffering any serious injuries. Insiders here, however, insist that if the matter comes to a show-down, the Green Bay club will go as high as $1000 in salary to get Hutson back.

Gallery Series, Hearst Shoot Complimentary Tournaments

The William Randolph Hearst Citizen's Marksmanship Competition, a nation-wide rifle shooting tournament, sponsored in New England by the American-Record, will in NO way conflict with the Gallery Series of the National Rifle Association.

In answer to many inquiries, it is here repeated that these two major tournaments are complementary and will not even make it necessary for a club to fire extra matches if entered in both tournaments.

If a club is already in a league for the gallery season, it will continue as in the past. The team which wins a league title will fire in the final match for the Hearst Citizen's Marksmanship Trophy, an event to be held about May 1, 1941.

INDIVIDUAL TEAMS

If a club interested in participating in the Hearst Shoot is NOT in a league, a league may be organized among the members of the club or with members of another club.

CONNECTICUT IN N. Y. AREA

In the event it is impossible for a club to organize a league of its own, it may enter a team individually. This club will be then grouped with other similarly entered clubs to form a league for these matches.

Entry in the Hearst Shoot will add to the gallery season an opportunity to compete with the best teams of New England—Connecticut excluded, seeing that this state has been listed in the Metropolitan New York area.

The New England Hearst Competition is part of a nation-wide tournament sponsored by Mr. Hearst. Similar competitions are being held throughout the country by other Hearst newspapers.

All prospective participants are urged to file their entries IMMEDIATELY

HOYAS, MICHIGAN FAVORED TO WIN

The weekly attempt to march through the football list (hoping to escape too many offside penalties):

MICHIGAN NORTHWESTERN: Add this one up any way you want to and it still looks razor-close. Each beaten once by a one-point margin, and by Minnesota, the nation's current No. 1 team. Win or Tie by Williams Takes Little Three Title

With several of the small college New England football teams already through for the year, a great many more will wind up activities tomorrow afternoon.

Williams and Amherst windup in a game that will settle the Little Three championships and this affair is the small college feature of the day.

New Hampshire ends activities against Connecticut State; Wesleyan calls it quits against Trinity; Vermont concludes with Middlebury and Tufts take a week off before its final game of the year which will be with Mass. State.

Another week-end feature is the Providence-St. Anselm private battle scheduled at Providence for Sunday. These two Catholic rivals are very evenly matched and this game should be a bitter struggle from start to finish.

Coming back to tomorrow's frays, the Williams-Amherst clash is "tops." Williams is a top heavy favorite as a result of its lop-sided triumph of Wesleyan. An Amherst victory would definitely be an upset and yet it is possible for the Lord Jeffs figure to play inspired football against the Purple.

If Amherst should win there will be no Little Three champion as Wesleyan has already beaten Amherst. Williams must win or tie to take the title, otherwise it winds up in a three way tie.

Vermont should send Middlebury down to its eighth successive defeat as the Panthers have very little and have been battered about by everybody this fall. New Hampshire-Connecticut is a tossup, but the passing of Win MacDonald, a Waltham boy, may spell victory for the Wildcats.

O'Brien to Quit Grid To Become G-Man

By Associated Press

Here are a flock of rumors we're trying to check as we reel to press—Davey O'Brien will quit pro football and become a G-man if the FBI approves his application.

Maple Leafs Most Improved Ice Sextet

Toronto Maple Leafs are the most improved team in the National Hockey League, closely followed by the New York Americans, Coach Paul Thompson of the Chicago Blackhawks declared today.

"The best fight in 10 years is in store for the fans this season because of improvement in every team in the league with the exception of the Detroit Red Wings," Thompson said in an interview.

"After seeing the Leafs in one game, I think they have the greatest defense in the league. Wally Stanowski will be the greatest defenseman and star the league has ever seen after he gets a little more years of experience. In addition, he is the fastest and most shifty player I have ever seen.

"One pleasant surprise for the fans will be the New York Americans. The Amerks have improved more than 20 per cent over last season. They have a half dozen young players that show real promise. Pat Egan, a defenseman, and a fast young forward by the name of Flaherty, look like coming stars.

"The only team that has not added strength is the Detroit Red Wings. There are no new faces on the Wings and Ebbie Goodfellow appears headed for a tough year.

"If we can split even with the Bruins this season we will win the championship," so opined the Leafs leader.

Engel to Stay At Chattanooga

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Nov. 15 (AP)—Joe Engel, Barnum of Baseball, has been offered a job by the Brooklyn Dodgers of the National League as head of the Brooklyn farm system, but says he will stay on the job here.

Confirming a report of the offer from Larry MacPhail, general manager of the Brooklyn club, Engel said:

"I have Larry's offer in my left hind pocket, but I'm going to stay here and try to save the Chattanooga club if I can."

The Chattanooga Lookouts of the Southern Assn., a "fan-owned" club of which Engel is president, ran into financial difficulties this season because of disappointing attendance and lack of sufficient profitable deals on players.

The club was purchased from Washington of the American League by Engle and a group of fans who bought into the club at $5 a share. The group still owes Washington $9,000 on the deal.

"I'm calling a meeting of directors and stockholders late in November," Engel said. "I hope we can straighten out the situation here."

Gabby Hartnett is slated for a post with the Giants, either as coach or boss farmer at Jersey City.

Joe Engel turned down an offer of $15,000 per to run the Brooklyn farm chain . . . Stanford scouted the Texas Aggies last week, which may mean a lot or nothing at all.

An eastern university is after Vic Hanson, former Syracuse coach . . . None of these guaranteed for more than 30 minutes.

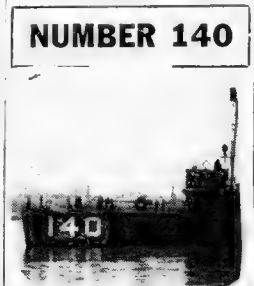
NUMBER 140



U. S. DESTROYER FAIRFAX

Boston Evening American employes like to play the number pool as well as the next person, and when, yesterday, the paper printed the pictures of six destroyers which were sailed into Boston for war conditioning, they read the numbers thereon with avidity and proceeded to ferret out their favorite backmarker.

They were a happy lot, especially the photographers who took the pictures, when the number of the Destroyer Fairfax—140—came out. Practically every one of them had played it.

HARVARD CONFIDENT OF WIN DESPITE LOSS OF 2 STARS

Despite a week of rain and fog, the Harvard team is riding high and is confident that the Brown winning streak will come to an abrupt halt tomorrow afternoon.

Dick Harlow has been forced to send his charges through lengthy drills in the Cage giving the Crimson eleven another tricky defense which may foil Tuss McLaughry's outfit.

Harvard finally showed up with a well co-ordinated running attack last week against Penn which still has the critics dizzy. Harvard will be less effective in overland manœuvers this week because of the loss of blocking back George Heiden, but the Harvard coaches have given the team some new plays and worked out wrinkles in the old touchdown plays.

SPREYER RIFLE BETTER

Harvard is ready for what may turn out to be the best game between the two teams in their thirty-eight years of grid rivalry.

There is no chance that either Gardella or Heiden will be inserted into the lineup. Gardella has been running with the third team for the past few days but only to keep in condition for the season's finale with Yale a week away.

Long workouts under the lights in the cage have seen Harlow stressing timing and the Crimson passing attack. Spreyer has developed into a real threat as a hurler and his rapid improvement makes the Cantabs an even choice against the Bruins. Harlow has given the Puritans some new passplays that should click.

TOUGH TO BEAT IN NOVEMBER

Harvard is always a tough team to defeat in November and this year is no exception. The Cantabs' performance against Penn is a sound warning for their future rivals that the Crimson have begun to roll.

The line has developed into one of the best forward units that Dick Harlow has had at Harvard. Club Peabody at guard is one of the outstanding in the East and the rapid improvement of Tom Gardiner at tackle has given the Crimson a stalwart defense which even Michigan found difficulty in puncturing.

The loss of Gardella means that the Crimson will be below par defensively, but Billy Brown showed in the Penn game that he is a very capable substitute. Billy started out his fotball career at Harvard at a 160-pound guard ,but as a junior was moved to the backfield where he has been a real sparkplug.

The starting lineup for Harvard will be exactly the same as the one which took the field against the Quakers with the exception that Bill Barnes will move in at left end to take over MacKinney's duties who has moved to the backfield.

Crimson Clippings: Harvard and Yale freshmen teams play their annual game in the Yale Bowl tomorrow afternoon with the Elis a heavy favorite . . . The Harvard cubs have won only one game . . . The B. U. frosh and the Cantab javees hold their annual scrap at Soldiers Field this afternoon.

JOE LOUIS SIGNS

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 15 (AP)—Promoter Herman Taylor announced today the signing of Joe Louis to defend his heavyweight title in a bout here in January against the winner of the Gus Dorazio-Clarence (Red) Burman bout.

Gymnasts Finally Reach Peak for B. U.

Hoping to make some amends for a disastrous season, Springfield closes its season with Boston University tomorrow afternoon with the thought that an upset would pay up for the losses of the past two months.

At the start of the year Coach Paul Stagg had hopes of a fairly successful campaign but injuries just about wrecked all hopes. Tomorrow, however, the Gymnasts will be at full strength and may make things interesting.

With tradition behind them and everything to gain, Coach Pat Hanley fears that the visitors may turn in an inspired effort and for that reason is no little concerned over the coming clash which on paper figures to be a soft win for the Terriers.

These two teams haven't met in ten years but prior to 1931 they clashed six times and Springfield won them all except for one 7 to 6 setback.

There is plenty of local interest in the game for many of the Gymnasts hail from this section of the state. Dave Dockham of Somerville and Ken Gurney of Winchester are a pair of backs who promise to make things tough for the Hanleymen.

Weather to Decide Cornell's Left End

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 15 (AP) Cornell's football squad, after a final stiff workout in rain boarded a special train for Hanover, N. H., where it will meet Dartmouth tomorrow.

Coach Carl Snavely plans a light workout at Deerfield Academy at Greenfield, Mass. He has postponed selection of a starting left end because of the uncertain weather. Kirk Hershey will get the nod for a dry field, but Jim Schmuck or Kas Hipolit will be the choice if the going is rough and the footing is poor.

B. C. Students Hold Torchlight Parade On Eve of Hoyas Tilt

Boston College's eleven which will attempt to scale the pinnacle of national heights at the expense of Georgetown tomorrow afternoon at Fenway Park before most of the East's gridiron critics and a capacity house of 40,000, will not lack for vocal support and overall spirit in the stands—particularly the student section.

As has been the case right down through the years, the Boston College grid organization this season has had the entire student support. Head Coach Frank Leahy, a Notre Dame graduate, who has piloted the Eagles to their present place in the collegiate gridiron sun, has often remarked about the spirit and loyalty of the Chestnut Hill student body. Leahy recognizes and appreciates what the students' cheers has meant to his championship Eagles.

O'ROURKE LAUDS STUDENTS

The gridders themselves also have often expressed appreciation for the fine support of their classmates. The prove it, the entire student body of more than 1000 roaring boys turned out for "Beat Georgetown" rally, which was held in the library auditorium. They roared a demand for Charlie O'Rourke, who'll captain the Eagles tomorrow, starting Guard Joe Zabilski and Bob "The B. C. Bull" Dempsey, substitute sophomore halfback, but a prime favorite of followers of Boston College football, to say a few words. O'Rourke, Zabilski and Dempsey said that Boston College wouldn't be defeated without a terrific fight tomorrow, and spoke of the importance of student support to a college team. O'Rourke went into detail.

Said The Chucker:

"You fellows have always shown great spirit at our ball games. Perhaps you don't realize how really important your loyalty is. Without it, and I think I can speak for the rest of the football squad when I say this, we probably wouldn't have achieved the success we have had thus far this season—and last season."

TORCHLIGHT PARADE

Just to emphasize their spirit the Boston College student body will stage a torchlight parade from University Height, down Commonwealth ave. to the Parkman bandstand on the Common tonight. Festivities start at 6:45 in front of the Tanet building at University Heights.

James B. Murray, president of the student A. A., is in charge of the parade. The regular corps of cheer leaders headed by Walt Cuenin and Joe Maguire, hockey players, and Ralph Ryan high jumper, will lead the cheers.

Tomorrow morning hundreds of students will attend mass and receive holy communion with the football squad at 9 o'clock in the college chapel. Boston College is definitely behind its football team as 10,000 followers of Georgetown, 3000 of them students due to arrive on two special trains this afternoon, will be able to testify along about sundown tomorrow afternoon.

Hoyas' 'Spread' Worries Leahy

received any authentic information concerning the Hoyas.

LEAHY FEARS HOYAS' SPREAD

True, the weather has been bad in Washington. But an endowment from Thomas Fortune Ryan specified that the donation was to be used to erect a gymnasium at Georgetown. And if Thomas Fortune Ryan paid the freight the gym at the Hilltop must be the last word. There is no gymnasium at "The Heights" and as a consequence, the Eagles have been handicapped seriously.

It's the Georgetown spread that is causing Frank Leahy the most worry. On paper, it doesn't look so hot. It seems impossible that the Hoyas can run as many plays from that formation as they do. Naturally, B. C. has a defense for the Hoyas' spread. But will the Eagles be able to carry out their assignments, without having actually played against it?

The Eagles haven't faced an opponent this season that put on a spread. Possibly that tough break will be offset somewhat by the fact that the Hoyas haven't been called upon to defend against the Notre Dame shift.

TEAMS WELL SCOUTED

Both clubs have been well scouted. Frank Leahy sat in on the Georgetown-Temple game, and he claims he saw plenty. When asked if he could account the failure of Jim Castiglia to gain as consistantly as he did against Temple, Leahy replied:

"He hasn't had to. He is the type who can be relied upon to get his club yardage when it's really needed. He's a real power house, believe me. I saw him strut his stuff. And it was terrific."

In Julius Koshlap, the Hoyas have one of the best passers in the East. And, he can and does pass with either hand. The statistics show that Georgetown has gained more on Koshlap's forwards than they have on the ground, despite the giant linemen and the great blocking.

Boston College will pay particular attention to Mr. Mike Kopcik the end, who does the punting for the Hoyas. The Eagles realize that Jack Hagerty isn't going to tip off his plays by restricing Mr. Kopcik to kicking. They are expecting to see Mr. Kopcik carry the ball and even pass.

HOLOVAK READY

Mike Holovak is ready His pulled muscle has responded to treatment and has been pronounced o. k. by Trainer Frank "Silent" Jones. But, there's still some question as regards Butch Kissell seeing any action. Kissell's elbow is much better but still very sore and it will be a miracle if he is available.

With the exception of Kissell, the Eagles are in very good physical condition for the biggest test that they will receive this season.

Schoolboys Rained Out For 4th Day

Rain again cancelled the Boston schoolboy football doubleheader scheduled at National League Field this afternoon. English was slated to meet Mechanic Arts, while East Boston and Commerce were to make up the second half of the twin bill. This was the fourth successive day the Boston schoolboys were prevented by rain from

Pics Open Series Here With Washington Six

By SAM BROGNA

Boston's puck pecans will get their first glimpse of the Olympics in Eastern Amateur League competition tonight at the Boston Garden, where they open their home season against the Washington Eagles in the first of a two-game series.

Following this contest, the clubs return to the Ole Depot Saturday night to wind up their first home engagement.

The 'Pics already have had their first taste of warfare in the new circuit and, from their showing, have indicated that the clubs in this loop aren't going to be any faster thman the ones they played against last year in the Quebec Provincial League.

FIVE STARS MISSING

They battled the Baltimore Orioles to a 1 to 1 deadlock Wednesday night on their own rink with five of their better players out of action for two thirds of the game. For the first two periods the Pics withstood the Orioles' assault with the missing stars still fog-bound in a plane and all the home boys could do was tally once. But, when the quintet finally arrived in time to play the third, the Boston entry turned on the heat and knotted the count.

Every member came out of that clash in good physical condition deepite the fact that Coach Hago Harrington was forced to double up until he was at full strength. For the Eagles tonight, however, Harrington will have his boys on hand and will turn them loose right at the opening gong.

TWO NEW PLAYERS

When they face off at 8:30 o'clock, two new players will be in the starting lineup as well as three others on the spare roster. Vic Polich who turned in a brilliant performance at Baltimore, will be in the nets and Dan Sullivan, another Dartmouth great will be on the first forward line.

Sullivan will be at left wing with Buddy Foster at center and Paul Guibord, on the right flank. Since all three were former Dartmouth ice stars, they have been given the name of the "Green Wave." It was a Sullivan to Guibord combine that gave the 'Pics their only counter of the Baltimore tilt.

The three other new players are Ray Fortin of Colby, Jack Costello and Bob Campbell. Costello was up with the Olympics a couple of years ago.

HEAVYWEIGHT TEAM

Only one familiar name appears on the Eagles' roster. Outside of that, the visiting team is something of a mystery outfit.

Jimmy McCurry who is listed as a spare defenseman with the Washingtons, played against the Hub entry two years ago with the Victorias of Montreal.

The Eagles will introduce some sort of a heavyweight team with Johnnie McTeer, a defenseman who tips the scales at 223, the biggest and toughest. McTeer is supported with a number of others on the roster who go well over the 200 pound mark.
